ALL-OUT RANGOON FIGHT NEAR

Mayor, Crafton In 'Showdown' Meeting

LOCKE, SERVICE DIRECTOR WILL CONFER TODAY

Mayor Makes First Formal Move For Conference In 'Resignation' Tangle.

GETS CRAFTON'S LETTER

Session Arranged After Locke Learns Chief Aid Rejects 'Acceptance' Note.

Mayor W. J. Locke and Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton today were to stage what probably will be a "showdown" conference over the latter's tenure of office.

The conference was sought by the mayor, who set 2:30 p. m. as the hour.

It was the mayor's first move to confer formally with Crafton in the nearly two weeks since he first announced that Crafton had resigned, a statement which Crafton immediately denied, and has continued to deny ever since. The mayor said the "resignation" was effective tomorrow.

Although the offices of the two men are separated only by a reception room, neither has sought any formal discussion of the "resignation" problem up until today.

But Crafton's letter demanding that he either be discharged or retained, and insisting that he had not resigned, left the next move up to the mayor.

Locke received Crafton's letter yesterday. It was the director's answer to the surprise move Locke made Wednesday night at a Lion's club dinner, in which he handed Crafton a note stating that he was "accepting" Crafton's "resignation."

This morning Locke announced that he would arrange a conference with Crafton during the day. He did not directly answer a question as to whether he would give Crafton a letter of discharge, which Crafton had demanded that he do if he wanted him to give up his office.

Shortly after he arrived at his office this morning, Locke tried to locate Crafton, but the director was not in his office

Later when Crafton returned to

Registration of Blood Donors to Start In City

Richland county chapter of the Red Cross began setting up plans today for the registration of blood donors in the Richland area in anticipation of a visit here the end of March by the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit

Men and women between 20 and 60 years of age, white or colored, are eligible to register in the blood donor group which supplies blood plasma to the United States army and navy. All donors will be subject to a physical examination from physicians and nurses who staff the mobile unit.

The Cleveland blood donor unit covers a radius of 80 miles out of Cleveland and is one of the 17 mobile units of its kind in the United States. It carries all equipment to be used during a visitation leaving only a room to be supplied by the county chapter.

Registration plans were made yesterday by John H. Finefrock, blood donor chairman for the county Red Cross, at a called

Schools Get First Orders On Rationing

Sugar Books to Be Sent Here for Use March 17, Officials Told.

First step to launch the sugar rationing program in Richland county was taken today when the superintendents of the Mansfield and Richland county schools were asked to estimate the civilian and business population of their districts and submit figures to James Bailey, county rationing board chairman, by next Thursday.

Supt. W. L Miller of the Mansfield schools and County Superintendent Boyd Robinson received the requests for population figures from the state department of education which will supervise the rationing program in the state.

The education department announced yesterday that sugar rationing books, which will be distributed on the basis of the superintendents' estimates, will be ready to issue to families and business places about March 17.

School officials and teachers will work with the county rationing board and defense officials in setting up the rationing program. Teachers in elementary schools will compile the names of civilians and families in their communities, while high school instructors will list the restaurants, bakeries, and confectioneries.

Teachers also will assist with the registering of sugar purchasers at elementary schools in the city and county sometime next month, superintendents said

Instructions for getting the program under way indicated that families and business places will be asked to apply at designated schools in their districts for rationing books.

School officials have received no instructions relative to the method which will be used for determining how much sugar prospective purchasers have in their homes or the means that will be used for allocating sugar to individuals and business places.

FEUD ENDS

Political Rivals Shoot It Out In Barber Shop.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark.—(INS)—Blazing guns in a barber shop left two political feudists dead today.

One of them was Sheriff Champ Crawford, who gained national fame by his daring capture of Jack Russell, bandit, kidnaper and murderer, who was sentenced to 199 years imprisonment in Chicago in September, 1910, for the kidnap-slaying of Billy Scott Hamilton, a Kansas flour salesman.

The other was Jim Wilson, who was defeated for sheriff by Crawford in the 1940 campaign. Crawford was being shaved in the barber shop of Mollard Jacobs yesterday when Wilson strode in. He drew a gun and began shooting Desperately wounded, Crawford drew and returned the fire, then slumped over a shoeshine stand.

Ability of the Japs to bring up heavy fighting equipment quickly contributed to the fall of the city. These pictures are Central Press radiophotos from London.

FURTHER CREEK DREDGING PLAN

Plant Officials Give Informal Approval to $28.000 Project on Rocky Fork.

The plan to avert the threat of flood damage in Mansfield this spring by dredging Rocky Ford from Longview avenue to a point near the sewage disposal plant moved forward today after a conference of 15 officials of plants which would be affected by a flood.

The group expressed informal approval of the plan to raise the money to finance the $28,500 project by contributions from each plant that would be affected, according to John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

The intent of the proposed improvement is to remove all obstructions to the flow of high water and the lowering of the channel to its original flow line of a 1918 dredging project. No new right-of-way will be necessary and no widening of the channel is contemplated.

Arrangements were made at the meeting for personal calls on each plant bordering Rocky Fork in an attempt to obtain the necessary money as quickly as possible.

In a recent letter telling local manufacturers and merchants in the Rocky Fork area of the proposed project, Paul R. Tappan stressed the seriousness of a work stoppage in event of flood due to the urgency of war production and difficulty in obtaining materials to repair possible damage. Tappan is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce waterways and flood prevention committee.

Watchers on Shore See U. S. Tanker Burn Off New Jersey

(By International News Service)

ASBURY PARK, N. J. — Five miles off the New Jersey coast an American tanker burned today with flames that danced a hundred feet in the sky while shore watchers heard a series of explosions which rocked the ship erratically.

So close was the burning ship to shore that dozens of private boats put out to the scene along with naval and coast guard craft but their occupants, cautioned by navy censors, told little when they returned.

The first blast was heard at 12:40 a. m., by a police sergeant riding along the water front who saw a sheet of flame rise up from the ship close to shore.

Another officer, State Policeman John Thomas, reported:

"I heard the first explosion and I saw the blaze that resulted. Then there were several other sharp blasts, as if the tanker might have been shelled, but no one could say for sure."

Latter in the morning, shore front towns prepared to receive survivors but none had come ashore.

The name of the ship and other details were kept secret, a navy lieutenant explaining "we're trying to gather a coherent story of what happened."

RULES RATIONS

Nursery Man Named To Top Post In Ohio.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Harry T. Beckmann, Van Wert nurseryman and former industrialist, was named state rationing administrator today to succeed H. S. Perry, highway department engineer "loaned" to the Ohio defense council several weeks ago.

Announcement of Beckmann's appointment was made coincident with the resignation of Eric Ferguson of Portsmouth, member of the council's tire rationing division since Jan. 12, to accept employment with the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company at Pittsburgh March 1.

Courtney Burton, council executive director, said Beckmann would take over the duties of both Perry and Ferguson and direct rationing of tires, automobiles and sugar in Ohio. He will serve without pay.

40-HOUR WEEK FACING TEST IN CONGRESS

House Ready For Showdown on Labor Legislation In Session Today.

LEADERS 'CONCERNED'

Amendment Would Eliminate Overtime Pay In All Interstate Commerce.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today denounced as reprehensible the senate farm bloc's move to attach a rider to the 32-billion-dollar war appropriation bill to prevent the government from selling surpluses of cotton, corn and wheat at less than parity. The president charged that the Bankhead-Thomas amendment would raise the cost of the nation's eating about $1,000,000,000.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — With leaders conceding that they are "seriously concerned" about the situation, the house convened today to complete a showdown fight over proposals that the 40-hour week, the eight-hour day, and federal laws relating to overtime pay be suspended for the war's duration.

A last minute check by Democratic chieftains, they said privately, disclosed that "at least half and perhaps a little more" of the majority members will vote for the sweeping proposal.

Fate of the measure, then, rests in the hands of the 161 Republicans in the house. While G. O. P. leaders so far have declined to take part in the bitterest Democratic house fight since the war, most observers believe enough Republicans will vote for the proposal to insure its passage.

Sidney Hillman, labor director of the war production board, assailed the Smith proposals declaring that their enactment "would not expedite the necessary war production but—far more seriously—would result in confusion and demoralization and a

FUNDS READY

McGregor Says U. S. Sets Up $720,000 For Refund.

The U. S. War department today had set up $720,000 to reimburse the Muskingum Conservancy district for expenses and tax refunds to property owners affected by the project and to pay flood taxes for the next three years, Congressman J. Harry McGregor of the 17th district informed The News-Journal today.

Only a small amount of the funds is expected to come to Richland county since few property owners here are near enough to the flood control district to be affected by it.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said refunds have been made to less than a dozen property holders in the county who paid the Muskingum conservancy levy immediately after the district was set up. The War department took over the project about three years ago and is financing its operation.

The Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill dams are a part of the district.

ARREST PRIVATE

Authorities End Search for Man Who Killed Policeman.

LONDON —(INS)— Private J. W. Moore, 20, of the Canadian Highland Light infantry, today was arrested in connection with the search for a killer who allegedly broke out of a guardhouse, killed one policeman and seriously wounded a second.

No specific charge immediately was made against Moore, but it was stated that the search for the killer, carried on by thousands of soldiers and police throughout Sussex, had been discontinued.

'Tigers', RAF Shoot Down 94 Enemy Planes

Aircraft Slash at Newest Invasion Fleet Headed Toward Java.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Java—Air squadrons of the United Nations struck at Japanese invasion armadas today as the enemy sought to reinforce and push forward the spearheads thrust toward both ends of Java island.

New enemy warships and transports were sighted in the waters of Sumatra island on the western approach to Java Dutch airplanes bombed them. In the neighborhood of Bali island, on the eastern approach, American bombers led the attack.

The Japanese air force, now operating from bases within short flying distance of Java, was battling savagely to protect the enemy fleets and hammering steadily at the big Dutch naval base of Soerabaja on eastern Java.

Enemy navy-zero fighters, carrying two cannon and four machine guns and equipped with detachable reserve fuel tanks that give them a long range, savagely attacked Netherlands airplanes. The Dutch planes had pounded Japanese ships off the east coast of Sumatra near Bangka island. One enemy fighter was shot down, the Dutch communique indicated.

Ten Japanese-0 fighters took part in the air battle.

Results of the bombing attacks were uncertain and the American onslaught against sea-borne enemy reinforcements near Bali was not mentioned in the Dutch communique, presumably awaiting an American or United Nations announcement.

(American planes may have participated in the Sumatra attack as well since the Dutch communique usually is limited to activities of the N. E. I armed forces while the United Nations communiques include American and British operations as well)

Blocked In Air, Jap Forces Prepare Land Attack on Burma Capital

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Japanese ground forces on the Burma front were expected today to launch an all-out offensive against Rangoon at almost any moment following failure of their repeated efforts to reduce the Burmese capital by air.

During the past two days flaming Japanese planes have been dropping from the skies over Burma and Thailand in droves—sent plunging to earth by members of the famed American Volunteer Group and the RAF.

Altogether no less than 94 and probably more Japanese planes have been sent hurtling to destruction in what British newspapers now are calling a "miniature battle of Britain."

British and American pilots operating over the Rangoon area claimed a total of 60 Japanese planes shot down for certain and numerous "probables" as their score for Wednesday and Thursday.

At the same time, American Volunteer airmen operating over Chinese, Burmese and Thailand territory claimed 34 more planes shot down as "certainties"—plus several "probables."

This brought the number of Japanese planes certainly shot down in two days to 94 in the Burma-Thailand region.

Of the 60 claimed by American and RAF sky fighters, at least 27 and probably 34 were bagged in a fierce combat near Rangoon yesterday.

Military authorities in London said that the relative pause is still continuing on the Burma land front, with the Japanese moving northward along the east bank of the Sittang river, apparently in an attempt to outflank the British troops to the left.

A last-minute Reuters (British) dispatch from Rangoon said substantial imperial forces had taken up positions along the Sittang

BATAN: Japs Forced to Fall Back on Whole 13-Mile Front

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With fighting continuing on the Batan front, the war department reported today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's counter-blitz has pushed the Japanese invaders back distances varying from one-half to five miles along the 13-mile front stretched across the peninsula.

MacArthur's surprise counter-offensive commenced 48 hours ago, apparently has caught a numerically superior enemy off guard and forced them to retreat from advanced positions about midway on the embattled peninsula.

In a brief communique, the army said that "the greatest advance was made on the right of the line north of Pilar."

Pilar is an important coastal point about midway down the peninsula on the Manila bay side. This is approximately the position of the lines held by MacArthur against all Japanese attacks during the past month

The communique disclosed, however, that the Japanese are striking back at MacArthur's forces with light air and artillery attacks.

The latest dispatches also stated that for some unknown reason the Japanese have temporarily ceased their siege of four American-held forts in Manila bay.

Outcome of MacArthur's surprising offensive remains in doubt, however, in view of the fact that the defenders apparently still have not penetrated the enemy's main positions.

RUSSIA: Soviets Pinch Both Ends of Line In New Attacks

(By Associated Press)

Russia's armies opened fierce new attacks at both ends of the 1,200-mile battlefront today, lashing out from long-besieged Leningrad in the north and on the Crimean peninsula in the south, while Stockholm dispatches reported that Soviet cavalry had advanced to within 72 miles of the Latvian frontier.

Meanwhile, the German-controlled Paris radio said "it has been confirmed" that Admiral William D. Leahy, American ambassador in Vichy, had demanded that all movements of the still powerful French fleet receive prior authorization from the United States

The radio said that the Vichy government rejected "this intolerable demand" and that it was "rumored" Admiral Leahy would leave his post in protest.

Only last Saturday, the 26,500-ton French battleship Dunkerque was reported to have arrived in Toulon, France, from North Africa, stirring Allied fears that it might be pressed into service by the Germans.

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches from the flaming Staraya Russa battle zone reported that the Red armies were breaking down the stand of trapped survivors of the German 16th army, virtually dooming division after division of the encircled Nazis.

Heavy battles were reported around Novogorod, key German base on Lake Ilmen 100 miles southeast of Leningrad.

A bulletin from Red army headquarters said the Russians, appar-

Joan Fontaine and Gary Cooper Win Movie 'Oscars'

JOAN FONTAINE

(By Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Joan Fontaine and Gary Cooper were given gold statuettes as the outstanding actress and actor of 1941 at the movies' first wartime awards meeting today.

Miss Fontaine won for her portrayal of a woman who lived in constant fear that her husband would kill her. The picture was RKO's "Suspicion."

Cooper was acclaimed for his role as the World war's No. 1 hero, Sergeant (Alvin) York in the Warner Bros. picture of that name.

Other nominees for the best actress were Miss Fontaine's sister, Olivia De Havilland; Bette Davis, already a two-time winner; Greer Garson and Barbara Stanwyck.

Other male nominees were Orson Welles, Cary Grant, Walter Huston and Montgomery.

Twentieth Century-Fox won the best picture award for the first time since the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences began giving oscars in 1928. The film was "How Green Was My Valley."

John Ford was awarded a gold statuette for his directorial work on the film. Ford also won best directing oscars in 1935 and 1940 for "The Informer" and "Grapes of Wrath." Donald Crisp's work in "How Green Was My Valley" won him the award for the year's best male supporting role.

Mary Astor was proclaimed best supporting actress for Warner Bros. "The Great Lie."

Lieut. Jimmy Stewart, in uniform, and Ginger Rogers, who won the 1940 oscars, made the presentations to Cooper, Fontaine, Crisp and Astor.

included thousands of Americans, Britons and Australians, the people of Java were ready for the hour of decision. The aerial attacks on the enemy ships off Sumatra indicated the test would not be long delayed.

Damage by heavy Japanese anti-aircraft fire and the attack of Japanese planes which raced in as the Dutch planes left for home, prevented the bomber crews from observing results but it was indicated that great damage had been done.

It was believed that at least one of the Japanese planes was shot down before the Dutch planes got safely home.

For reasons not yet clear, Japanese planes diminished the furor of their attacks on Java.

Nine planes made what was intended to be a heavy raid on the Soerabaja naval base. They dropped many bombs, the communique said, but all fell into the sea.

Their aim was spoiled because Dutch planes challenged them and soon drove them off.

The communique, issued through the Netherlands Indies news agency, said that no other raids on Java were reported.

The fleet which the Netherlands planes attacked lay off Bangka island, opposite the Palemberg area of Sumatra.

Despite the lull in Japanese raiding on Java, attributable in part to the stout opposition of Dutch fighter planes, a determined Dutch army, backed by thousands of American, British and Australian troops and a centuries-old tradition of intrepid fighting against odds, awaited a direct Japanese invasion attempt in the greatest battle of the Pacific war.

Australia Prepares For Fall of Java

NEW YORK—(INS)—Australia is making its war plans on the assumption that Java "will not be able to hold out," Cecil Brown, CBS correspondent, reported in a broadcast from Melbourne today.

Brown described a meeting of the Australian war council which he said was the "biggest ever held" in Australia.

"The object," he said, "is to decide how to meet a possible Japanese attack on this country . . .

"The 'main subject of the discussions is the American proportions of manpower and equipment in the southwest Pacific. As the result of President Roosevelt's speech the opinion here is that no effort is going to be spared to strengthen Australia as a springboard for N. E. I. operations.

"The government of this country is making its plans on the assumption that Java will not be able to hold out."

Japs Claim Seven Warships Are Sunk

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—(INS)—A Japanese war communique claimed today that seven enemy warships were sunk or heavily damaged in a naval battle off the Dutch East Indies island of Bali.

"In a naval battle off Bali island," the communique asserted, "two American and two Netherlands East Indies destroyers were sunk and two cruisers and one destroyer were heavily damaged."

(Editor's Note: There was absolutely no confirmation of this new Japanese claim from any other source. Like other Japanese claims issued from Tokyo yesterday, this communique may have been put out in the hope of gaining naval information.)

ently striking to divert Nazi reserves from going to the relief of 90,000 Germans reported trapped south of Lake Ilmen, in the Staraya Russa sector, destroyed 11 blockhouses and 30 gun emplacements and dugouts, and killed 2,500 in a three-day battle.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that the Russians were attacking fiercely on the Sevastopol and Kerch fronts, in the Crimea, but asserted that German and Rumanian troops had repulsed them with heavy losses.

Stockholm advices said Red cavalry troops had reached the vicinity of Sustjevo, a railway village, in a drive toward the Latvian border, a thrust imperilling the flank of the German armies before Leningrad.

The Russian plea for opening of a second front to capitalize on Red army gains against Adolf Hitler's war machine was laid anew before the Allies by Ambassador Maxim M Litvinoff last night with a declaration that victory might be won "by the summer."

Hitler stakes all his hopes on a spring offensive, Litvinoff told the overseas press club in New York.

"He knows that either he will win this campaign and win all, or he will lose it and lose all," the envoy said. "We should like our allies and friends to see this as clearly as Hitler does and act accordingly."

The possibility of an Allied nutcracker action from western Europe or an oblique alignment through the Balkans or Scandinavia is obviously considered thoughtfully in Berlin.

A Berlin dispatch received via Stockholm by the London News Chronicle said "British and American plans are in being for an imminent attack on the northern Norwegian and Finnish coasts in order to secure communications with Russia through Murmansk."

RAF Blasts At Battleship Haven

LONDON—(UP)—An air ministry communique today described intensified British effort to land a belated knockout blow on one of the German battleships which staged an historic dash through the English Channel from Brest.

The terse communique said the Royal Air Force staged its second raid in two nights on Germany's Kiel naval base where Albert V. Alexander first lord of the admiralty, announced, one of the battleships was undergoing repairs.

Alexander told commons yesterday that British reconnaissance fliers had located either the Scharnhorst or the Gneisenau in drydock at Kiel.

river for a "final, back-to-the-wall defense of the capital."

This report added the Japanese were expected hourly to launch a "tremendous assault" in a bid to overcome the last natural barrier between themselves and the Burma road.

The heavy toll of Japanese planes was exacted when the American and British fliers intercepted the largest enemy fighter-bomber combination ever seen over Burma. At least 100 Japanese planes were reported to have participated in the battle.

Latest reports from the Burma front said the Japanese advance against scorched Rangoon was being opposed by the fiercest fighting the Japs have yet encountered on that sector.

The London Daily Mail reported from Mandalay that the Japanese were hurling wave upon wave of fresh troops into the fight and "recklessly squandering them" against the bitter defense of the British imperial forces.

This account said the Japs were still 30 miles from the main railroad lines linking Rangoon and Mandalay, and that these lines are still usable, as well as secondary lines further west.

Unofficial advices, meanwhile, indicated that the British application of the "scorched earth" policy to Rangoon had done its job thoroughly, leaving little of use for the Japanese invaders if they should reach the city.

(The Saigon radio claimed yesterday that Japanese troops had reached the suburbs of Rangoon and that the fall of the Burmese capital was expected momentarily.)

In London pessimism was somewhat dispelled, however, by news that veteran Chinese troops were still pushing southward to meet the Japs in the event they strike against Mandalay.

The Japanese attempt to raid Rangoon with their huge air armada was broken up completely by the American (AVG) and British fliers) whether the defenders suffered losses was not revealed.

(At Chungking, the Chinese central news agency said yesterday that AVG airmen over Thailand shot down 34 Jap planes in combat Wednesday and Thursday without loss to themselves.)

Predict Jap Attack On Russia Soon

CHUNGKING, China—(UP)—Allied military informants, increasingly certain that Japan is preparing to attack Russia, expressed belief today that the attack probably would be started between the time the winter snows stop and the spring thaw starts.

In attacking while eastern Siberia is still frozen, experts said, the Japanese would be able to move troops over frozen streams and lakes and would be able to strike before the ice melted and freed the powerful Russian far eastern fleet for action.

It is reported here that this fleet includes 90 submarines.

Military men said that in 1940 Russia had about 630,000 troops, 3,000 airplanes and 2,300 armored vehicles in Siberia, and that the Japanese at the peak of their strength last September had about 550,000 men in Manchukuo and Korea.

He said that in many similar cases the connection was superficial. No decision as to whether an operation will be performed to separate the twins will be made for a week or ten days. Dr. Timpone said "They cried independently, anyway," one of the attending nurses reported.

AWARDS CONTRACT TO REMOVE FIRE-SCARRED CHURCH WALLS

A contract for removal of the walls of the First Congregational church, which was destroyed by fire Feb 17, had been awarded by the church board of trustees today to S. H. Tuber and company.

Meanwhile, Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the church, said the First Congregational services will be held in the John Simpson Junior high school auditorium, beginning next Sunday. Sunday school will be at 9:30 a. m. and worship services at 10:45 a. m. under the regular Sunday schedule of the church.

Decision to use the school auditorium indefinitely was reached by the church board. The school auditorium will be occupied on a rental basis.

Wesley G. Carr, president of the church board, said the contract called for immediate start of work on leveling the remaining walls. He said the board desired to have the walls torn down immediately to avert the possibility that someone might be injured by falling bricks or other debris.

At the request of the church board, the city fire department has left up the guard ropes which were strung around the church property following the fire. Damage in the fire was estimated by church officials at $225,000.

A decision will be reached later, after the walls are torn down, on disposition of the bricks and other ruins, Carr said. While the main building was a complete loss, it was believed that walls of an addition to the rear of the main building may be used again.

his desk, Locke entered his office and said:

"I think there are a few things we should discuss. Would you see me today at 2:30 in my office?"

Crafton agreed.

Later, the two met in the corridors of City building and talked briefly, but Crafton said that nothing had been settled and that the 2:30 conference was still on.

Locke told a News-Journal reporter that "personal matters" would be discussed and therefore it would be a "closed meeting."

As things stood just before the conference, the mayor's last move was the note he gave Crafton Wednesday night saying he was "accepting with regret" Crafton's "resignation" as of tomorrow.

Crafton's last move was his letter asserting he was "forced to ignore" the mayor's note, and insisting that if he wanted to dispense with his services, the mayor would have to give him a letter of discharge.

Locke did not indicate today whether he would do so, and Crafton repeated that he still had no intention of resigning.

Locke yesterday announced that Fred B. Wolff, hotel operator, would succeed Crafton. Wolff said he would take over the job "when the post became vacant." Wolff served as service director from 1926 through 1929.

MOVE TO END SHOE STRIKE

Portsmouth Leaders Call For Plant To Reopen.

PORTSMOUTH — (UP) — Portsmouth business and industrial leaders moved today to end a strike that has kept 3,200 Selby Shoe company workers from their jobs for five weeks.

It was announced at a meeting of 215 members of the retail merchants association and eight allied organizations last night that an effort would be made to reopen the plant at 8 a. m. Monday. The organizations last night that announcement of plans to reopen, however.

George Martin, national representative of the United Shoe Workers' union (CIO) which called the strike, said that any attempt to reopen the plant would bring "a showdown."

Registration of Blood Donors to Start In City

meeting held with his registration, place, and publicity committees.

Mrs. Carvel Gorman, Mrs. B. R. Preston and Mrs. J. Martin Strickler have been appointed to select a place for the mobile unit staff to work during their stay in the city. Mrs. H. T. Stiles and Mrs. Ephriam Brown will handle registration while Mrs. Harry Cave and Mrs. Hamilton Walter distribute publicity.

Each donor will be required to give no more than one pint of blood which will be converted into plasma and stored for later use. The plasma remains effective for a five-year period.

STIMSON HITS FREE CIGARETS

Opposes Plan To Give Pack a Week To Men in Armed Forces.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Secretary of War Stimson today said that he was opposed to a bill introduced in the house to give a free pack of cigarets a week to all members of the army, navy and coast guard.

Stimson said that he considered cigarets a "luxury" which should not properly be placed on the list of regular soldier's rations.

The bill was introduced by Rep Bates (D) Ky., who declared the gift of the cigarets would be a "step toward improving morale of enlisted men in the United States military and naval forces."

COURSE STARTS

Class In Blueprint Reading Opens At High School Yesterday.

Opening yesterday of a new trade extension adult class in blueprint reading and drawing in the vocational department at Senior high school was announced by V. H. Oberlander, vocational coordinator.

So far, Oberlander said, 25 persons have signified their intention of taking the course, but there are still vacancies in the class.

Sponsored by the federal government the class will hold sessions from 6:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays over a 12-week period.

KILLED IN WRECK

NAPOLEON —(U.P.)— The navy department today notified Mrs. William Yackee that her son, Raymond Yackee, 27, a first class seaman, was lost when the supply ship Pollux hit a reef on the Newfoundland coast last week.

STARS RECEIVE MOVIE 'OSCARS'

Joan Fontaine, Gary Cooper Named; 'Valley' Film Wins Award.

Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane," nominated for nine major and minor trophies, received only one—best original screen play. Welles and John Mankewiecz shared it.

Walt Disney as usual carried off special honors, for "Fantasia" and "Dumbo" and was given the Irving Thalberg memorial trophy for most consistently high production achievement.

The dinner last night, once called off because of the war but reinstated, lacked most of its usual glamour and fanfare. There were no searchlights outside. Men wore business suits or uniforms—many army officers were guests. Feminine stars yielded little to the informality, however. They appeared in evening dress, adorned in furs, jewels and flowers.

Wendell Willkie departed from a prepared address to assert "If and when an air raid of any proportions comes to Los Angeles, there will be no debate about it."

Turning to the war, he declared: "If the victories of totalitarianism have taught us anything, it is that those who win strike first.

"Let's begin to strike! Let's begin to win!"

BUILDS FORTS

Germans Prepare for Counter Invasion, Says Stockholm.

STOCKHOLM —(U.P.)— Germany is building fortifications in Norway as a precaution against counter-invasion and is moving troops to Norway from Denmark, reliable Danish sources in Stockholm said today.

New defenses are being erected along the coast, it was said, and Bergen, Trondheim and other strategic ports have been blocked.

OHIO TO GET PLANT

WASHINGTON— (INS) —A new ordnance plant, costing "several million dollars," will be constructed soon by the army in western Ohio, somewhere near Indian lake, Rep Stephen Young announced today.

What do I do?

Watch your battery when the thermometer drops.

Did you realize that at zero even a new battery has only one-third its normal power? And the lower the temperature goes, the weaker its power output gets. That's why, if your battery is under-charged to start with, it may go completely bad—or may freeze up—during a cold spell. So keep your battery fully charged, especially in winter. That may save the expense of a new battery—will make your driving more enjoyable.

CHAPTER XIV

At noon Judith hurried from the store to the hospital and found Emily still asleep, her face gray on the white pillow, the odor of ether still in the white room. A nurse sat beside her. Judith did not linger. When she returned to the store, there was a telegram from Emily's mother, telling her that she would arrive in New York the following afternoon. Judith wired back that she had seen Emily and that she, Mrs. Travers, must not go to a hotel, but to the apartment.

That afternoon Giles Benson, the advertising manager, called her into his office to discuss cruise clothes. Also he said, "You have a vacation due you, haven't you? Um . . . See me about that in a week or so. Can't do anything about it now with Miss Autry off ill."

A vacation long anticipated but almost forgotten since Max had become the center of her life. She thought, "If I could go to Florida and join him . . . But he'll be back before I can go. Anyway, he's down there on business and I'd be in the way."

There was no letter from him that night. But the disappointment was short-lived since she had to hurry to the hospital again.

There were flowers in Emily's room, long-stemmed red roses in a blue vase on a table beside the bed. Emily lay very still, her eyes open, her face gray and gaunt, her hands very thin.

"I knew it was you," she said weakly when Judith came in "I knew they were your footsteps coming down the hall. Funny, how you get to know footsteps. I know Tim's, too."

Judith went to the bed and put her hand over Emily's. She was afraid she was going to cry out of pity for her friend. Her lips trembled when she said, "Your mother will be here tomorrow afternoon. You're not to worry about anything."

Phyllis and Ames had not come.

"Take off your things and bring the chair closer." When Judith was sitting close to the bed, Emily said, "I hate to be so much trouble to everybody." She closed her eyes. "I've got to tell you something. I've been sick for a long time, but I thought I could—well, think it away. But it wouldn't go away. . . . I'm going home, Judith, as soon as I'm well enough to travel. I'm going home to stay.

"Tim's people were lovely to me yesterday. His mother is a beautiful woman, tall and regal, and his father looks the way Tim will look thirty years from now. And their house is a sort of gray castle of a place. I've never seen so many rooms and servants." She smiled sadly. "They were lovely to me, yes, but in the way you are to a nice country cousin. But I suppose when you are very rich and important and have an only son, you don't want him to marry an outsider. I saw yesterday it wouldn't work at all, my marrying Tim, if he begged me to. Funny, but I stopped resenting it. When you know you can't have a mink coat, you don't even look in show windows at them.

"I was taken ill last night before their guests arrived. Tim's life has been mapped out for him, Judith. It's a pity because nobody's life should be mapped out for him. I like the philosophy of my kind better. We're still taught that everybody is created equal and that this is still the land of opportunity. If I had never come to New York, I'd never have known it isn't that way."

"I understand, Emily. But don't talk any more just now."

"I've got to I've got to get it off my mind. If I don't go home, what will happen? I'll go deeper and deeper into debt and I'll see the glow wear off my romance I'll get desperate and bitter and hard. How long I'll be a pleasant side-issue to Tim I don't know. Maybe . . . even after he marries the right girl. But it will be too late for me then. You've seen them, Judith, the women who've given years to men and who wouldn't marry them. You always feel sorry for them, but you never like them much for being fools. You think they should have known better. If only when you're a small-town girl you didn't believe what you saw in the movies . . . I hope you can get someone congenial to live with you."

"I'll manage. Your mother will be with me while she is here."

"Thanks . . . I knew yesterday what it means to be rich Tim demanded the best surgeon, the best room, special nurses. I was too sick to protest. And I've got to cash in an insurance policy my parents paid on for years before I took it over in order to pay for Tim's best." She smiled again. "At home, at least, I'll be the best-dressed girl in town for a while."

Her eyes were misty when she said, "A girl doesn't come to New York to find herself. She comes to lose herself. What does it all add up to, after all—the pretty clothes, the cocktails, the dancing? I'm going back where life at least has the purpose of keeping a family together and . . . That's Tim walking down the hall."

Presently Tim paused on the threshold of the room and grinned.

"Hi! How's the patient? She looks swell, doesn't she, Judith?"

He wouldn't sit down. Restlessly he moved from one part of the room to another, smoking cigarets, his good humor all too obviously forced. Poor Tim, Judith thought. He had his side, too. Illness bored him because he had never been ill. There was no music and laughter here in this white room. His playmate who had lived to amuse him was a white-faced, pale-mouthed girl. It was the night after Christmas, the gayest time of the year, and he was missing the fun . . .

"I'll take you home, Judith," he said when the nurse told them they must go.

Briefly he bent over Emily. "Keep the old chin up, honey. You'll be as good as new shortly. And if you want anything, just give us the signal. I'll see you."

When they were in his car Judith said, "Her mother is coming tomorrow."

"Good. What a rotten break for Emily, being laid up now."

How tiresome for you, Tim, she thought, to be expected nightly at a hospital when everyone else is dancing and drinking this year to a close!

Mrs. Travers arrived the next afternoon and went directly to the apartment where Fannie admitted her. When Judith came home, Mrs. Travers had left a note saying that she had gone to the hospital. There was no letter from Max . . . Perhaps he was very busy . . . Perhaps the heavy Christmas mail had delayed his letter . . . Excuses drove away disappointment.

She met Mrs. Travers at the hospital and saw that Emily had inherited her lovely brown eyes and her friendliness from her mother. Mrs. Travers was short, stout, neatly, but quite inexpensively dressed with short brown hair and a round face on which she had never used anything except soap and water. You knew instantly that she was the hub around which a large family revolved, that the windows in her house were always clean and that the food on her table was plain, abundant and wholesome.

"So this is Judith," she said, rising and shaking Judith's hand vigorously. Mrs. Travers' hand was rough, her handclasp firm. "I can't thank you enough for what you've done for my girl." Brisk, capable, she had taken charge of Emily, had spoken to doctors and nurses and could be good-humored now that she knew Emily was out of danger. "She's going to be all right. Sickness is nothing new to me. I've nursed six of 'em through the childhood diseases and Emily's dad, who had missed 'em came down with 'em all."

Emily smiled. "Mother is in her glory when one or all of us need her."

"They can shift for themselves while I'm here with you. I haven't been to New York since I went to Niagara on my honeymoon. It hasn't changed much or maybe I'm not impressed because we've got some pretty big buildings out west now. Emily's come to her senses, Judith. She's going home."

Mrs. Travers was telling Judith about her adored family when Tim came. He was wearing evening clothes and carrying a long box of flowers and his expression said, "I must have my fun, Emily, but I didn't forget you, honey. I've brought some flowers. There's a party tonight and you can't expect me to sit here."

"Tim . . . This is my mother."

Mrs. Travers got up and shook his hand. How homespun Emily's mother must seem to him, Judith thought!

"How do you do, young man?" Mrs. Travers said. She eyed him so critically that color crept up his lean cheeks.

He laughed. "I'm going fine, Mrs. Travers."

He was charming — the little while he stayed. He told her a funny story about himself and made them laugh. But he stayed such a little while and then he left. Emily's eyes followed him and lingered through the open door long after he had gone. In the clear brown eyes, no less beautiful now because they were tired and had known recent pain, Judith saw a battle for strength. For out of strength would come resignation.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1942.

It is being recalled that what later became Drive-It-Yourself stations were once known as livery stables.

One of the best arguments for keeping the Dies committee on the job is found by checking up on those who oppose it.

Anonymous letters are sometimes interesting—but seldom convincing. It is therefore impossible to use communications in which the identity of the writer is not disclosed.

Support Nation's War Leaders

COMPLAINT about how things are being done is among the most common of human traits, while constructive criticism that proposes a practicable better way to do things is a relatively rare attribute.

Since the attack on Pearl Harbor last December 7, which precipitated United States entry into the war, there has been every imaginable variety of adverse criticism of the unpreparedness for that attack and for subsequent successful Japanese assaults in the Far East.

Internally, and possibly more dangerous, criticism has been turned toward congress, the Office of Civilian Defense and other agencies of government, even to President Roosevelt himself.

Under the freedom accorded in this country, the right to criticize and complain is recognized and protected, but it should also be very generally understood that disagreement with policies and procedure does not justify other than whole-hearted co-operation in the national war effort under the leadership provided by government.

Expression of public opinion, as in the cases of pensions for congressmen, wasteful frills in OCD, and the like, can be made effective, and is fully justified, but nothing of this sort should result in a letdown in purchase of defense stamps and bonds or in any other requirement for individual or group participation in war work.

Just now, in the heat of discussion of ways to prevent work stoppage in production of war materials, there is renewal of demand for replacement of Frances Perkins as secretary of labor in the president's cabinet, and there is no apparent good reason why this should not be done immediately—but this is another of the minor matters that should not be allowed to retard the all-out war effort toward which the United States is aiming.

The president of the United States—now also commander in chief of the nation's military forces—shoulders responsibilities and is confronted by tasks of an immensity impossible for a casual critic to realize. His is a position of leadership and direction, which, for the duration of war, means much to the future of America and the entire world. Peacetime differences as to policies, political, administrative, economic or personal, had best be put aside until the war is won—or at least until there is greater assurance that the war WILL be won.

Penalty of Sentimental Procedure

SOONER or later the war must be carried to Germany. It is thought now that combined British and American expedition may be attempted next summer. If not, it will probably come later. No doubt volunteer forces from the small nations that Hitler has crushed in western Europe will be invited to join.

Such procedure is necessary not only as a matter of military strategy but also for psychological strategy. Neither in the last war nor in this war has the fighting been carried to Germany. Behind their armies, tanks and planes the German people have been snug and safe. Thus far they have acquiesced in the conquests of their armed forces and the slaughter and pillage and destruction attending those deadly forays. The war-makers cannot be suppressed until those who support them and benefit by their crimes are themselves made to share the penalties of such viciousness.

As the armistice was nearing in the first World war Americans saved Germany from invasion as a noble gesture. The whole world is now paying heavily for that sentimental procedure. There will be no peace on earth until it is made clear, as was said of old, that "whoso taketh up the sword shall perish with the sword." When that lesson has been learned there will be greater likelihood of permanent peace being established in the world.

Shenanigan In 'Numbers' Racket

OPERATORS of the "numbers" racket, popular commercialized gambling operation in which victims have one chance in a thousand to win, are making complaint in some Ohio cities that they are being gypped by crooks.

It appears that, in some devious ways, unscrupulous players of the numbers game have been able to ascertain in advance the third digit of the payoff number and have thus been enabled to rig up a system that makes their play a "sure thing."

This, of course, isn't "honest," from the standpoint of the "numbers" racketeers, who gear their game to the 1,000 to 1 chance of taking in $1,000 for every $450 they pay out, and it also seems to weaken the axiomatic idea that "there is honor among thieves."

The "numbers" racket, still permitted in some cities (just so it is where the public can't see it), has enriched a number of operators, under police protection, and the idea that their profits are now being jeopardized by what they regard as unfair methods is reported as being quite disheartening.

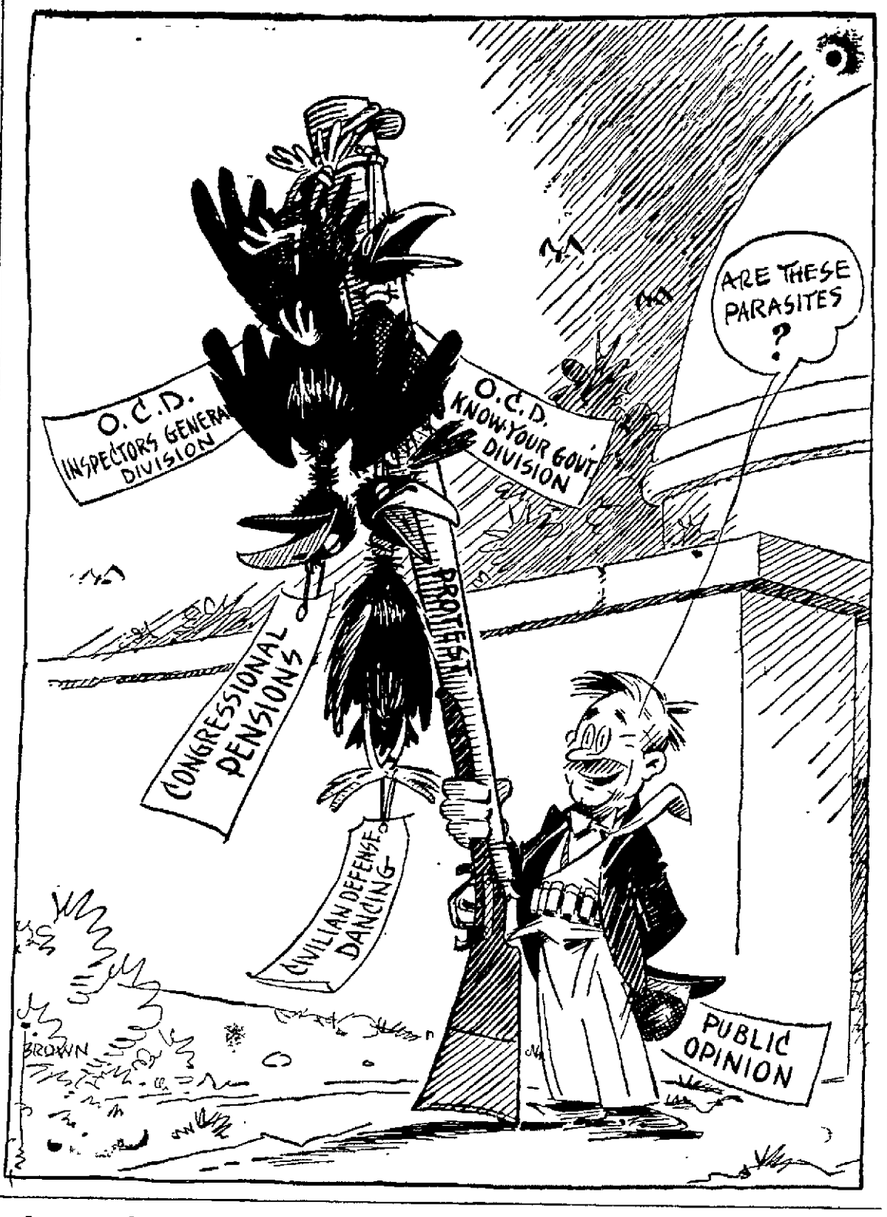
But, as the Akron Beacon Journal comments on the situation: "If there really is a gang of sharpshooters doing a job on the numbers racket, they are doing ordinary chumps a favor at the same time. The sooner the racketeers go broke the better."

Australia's Selected Population

THIS "WHITE AUSTRALIA" policy has its drawbacks. For years the Australians have discouraged any immigration except British, and especially select British at that. They hoped to escape the problems of race and over-population.

They certainly succeeded as to over-population. A country almost as large as the United States has only seven million people, less than the number living in New York City. That this was dangerous, they have often been warned. Lord Beaverbrook, for instance, told the Australians not long ago that they were tempting fate if they expected seven million people to hold an empty continent against Japan's teeming hordes. Now the test is coming.

THEY'LL DO, FOR A START



Blunder Toward Eventual Victory

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—One thing that nobody is qualified to talk about is Japanese morale. It is something we simply know nothing about. But it is a very interesting object of speculation.

We do know something that has been proved many times, in various ways. We are very much like the British in that we seldom do things efficiently in a war. We make horrible blunders, but we always muddle through.

If one doubts that this has always been true, reread the history of the Revolution, the war of 1812, the Civil war, the Spanish war, yes and even the World war. Not the skeletonized school histories, but complete accounts. We all remember Valley Forge, but give little thought to the stupidity, the working at cross purposes, and the unwillingness of the congress to face the facts that PRODUCED Valley Forge. And give a look at embalmed beef and fever along with Manila Bay and Santiago!

ALL of which leads up to this—that we are going to keep on fighting Japan until she is licked, and badly licked. Never in its history was our country so united in regard to an international objective. Lincoln had to fight a presidential campaign for re-election against an adversary who wanted to appease the South. McKinley was opposed by a violent group against the war, and another opposing keeping the Philippines. There is no such minority group in this country today to peck at President Roosevelt for an all-out war against Japan.

"Remember Pearl Harbor" is a much more effective rallying cry for our people than "Remember the Maine" was. There was in 1898, and still is for that matter, doubt as to whether the Spaniards had anything to do with sinking the Maine.

Now, as we keep fighting the Japanese, perhaps rather ineffectively, but nevertheless annoyingly, will there come a day when the people of that country, or even its rulers, begin to wonder whether all this is worth while? Certainly the economic profit from looting the Dutch Indies will not be satisfactory as long as they are losing ships and cargoes to submarine and airplane and raider attacks.

We are assuming for the moment that there will be no great naval battle in the Far East for a long time. If there is, and we are victorious, that would hasten peace. If we should lose, it would merely delay it, though perhaps for years.

But from some base or other we are going to keep on raiding Japanese shipping, and fighting the Japs wherever we can bring force to bear, FROM NOW ON.

EVERY BOY in America thrilled at the U. S. naval officer, in a little eight-man torpedo boat, who slipped into a Jap-held harbor, sank a big ship, and got away safely with all hands. It is what nearly every American boy would rather do than anything in the world.

It is the sort of thing which the British Commandos have been doing so well. It will continue, no matter how high the tide of Japanese victory may run.

Can the Japanese take it? That is a question which is going to be more and more interesting, especially if that big hoped for naval victory is postponed. And the constant fear of that will also always be in the offing of Japanese consciousness.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in Portland, Me., Feb. 27, 1807, the son of Stephen Longfellow, a lawyer of that city, and Zilpah Wadsworth, a descendant of John and Priscilla Alden. Longfellow gained such a hold on the hearts of the masses that he is often called "the poet of the people."

Man About Manhattan

Man of Ideas

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Irving Caesar . . . That's a name that ought to be familiar . . . He wrote "Tea For Two" . . . He and George Gershwin rode along the Hudson in a bus and dreamed up "Swanee" . . . When Henry Ford took his "Peace Ship" to Europe during the 1st World War, Irving was on it . . . Then he wrote "Sometimes I'm Happy" and all the other songs in "Hit the Deck."

The kids think Irving Caesar is a great man, and in a way he is . . . They associate him with George Washington, Pocahontas, and Mary-had-a-little-lamb, because they sing his safety songs in school . . . These safety songs taught the kids how to look before they crossed street corners, and it brought him an avalanche of mail from grateful mothers and teachers . . . Now Irving Caesar has switched to air raid safety songs for the kids . . . No matter what song they hear—even Tschaikowsky symphonies—the kids think Irving Caesar wrote it.

THAT Irving Caesar is a man of ideas becomes clear to anyone who checks up on his achievements over the last two decades. This man who began life as a stenographer and lived to coin the lyrics to more beautiful tunes than any man I can think of not only must keep the safety of the kids in mind. He has his Wor broadcasts to think of. He has, too, a new musical comedy now in rehearsal that he is producing . . . Irving calls this musical comedy "My Dear Public" . . . Which reminds me of a line in one of Noel Coward's comedies a few years ago . . . Coward made some reference to His dear public to Gertrude Lawrence, and when she lifted her eyebrows, Coward flipped, "Any public that pays $8.80 a ticket to see me act is inexpressibly dear to me."

If "My Dear Public" goes as well as this particular Coward show went, Irving Caesar will be a happy man . . . Though often a collaborator in hit shows, he has never—until now—been a producer.

IRVING CAESAR, personally, is short, dark, and energetic. He used to write lyrics to Victor Herbert's music . . . Also for the music of Rudolph Friml and George Gershwin . . . On the day after he lost his shirt in the stock market crash he came back to his office and wrote the words to "Lover Come Back To Me" . . . Perhaps that is why this song carries such an overtone of melancholia and sorrow.

You can almost trace the strides of the times by the titles of Caesar's songs . . . "Just a Gigolo." "Lady Play Your Mandolin." "Is It True What They Say About Dixie" . . . His gift for the right words to fit the right tunes was very much apparent in "No, No Nannette." "Wonder Bar," "Poppy," "White Horse Inn," and "Saratoga Chips."

It was New Year Eve in 1937 that inspiration touched Irving Caesar. He tried to cross Times Square, that seething vortex of humanity which had gathered in the traditional noisiness of New York to witness the death of the old year. By the time he had crossed the square he had been pushed, mauled, trod upon and left wholly disheveled. "Something ought to be done about that," he cried — and straightway developed the idea of the "Safety Songs" that have spread into a career and placed him on a pedestal — in the minds of school kids at least — along with George Washington and Hiawatha.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Publicity Boners Pulled By Knox, Appointments Displease Admirals

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—In view of the fact that President Roosevelt once made a great national issue over keeping "Nine Old Men" on the Supreme Court, the Washington Merry-Go-Round has suggested that the president might consistently dispense with the "Four Old Men" in his cabinet—Secretaries Hull, Stimson, Knox and Jones—all around seventy, who hold important war jobs. This is the third column in the series on the "Four Old Men."

FOR A MAN who has spent his life in the newspaper profession and is one of America's foremost publishers, Secretary of the Navy Knox certainly has a tough time with his press relations.

On the same week that the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Frank Knox was out on the newsstands with an American Magazine cover proclaiming to the American public: "We Can Defend Ourselves In Two Oceans."

And now, a few weeks later, Mr. Knox announces: "We've an awful lot of bread to butter, and it will have to be buttered very thin."

A public relations bull like this might be considered just bad luck, if it hadn't happened so often.

But after demanding that the American press not divulge the operations of American airplanes and personnel co-operating with the British before we were in the war, the good colonel came out with an article in Collier's disclosing that an American naval observer was present in the American-built plane which sighted the Bismarck.

Again, after it had been officially announced that the U. S. destroyer Greer was attacked first by a Nazi submarine, Secretary Knox's navy department sent a letter to the senate stating that the Greer was helping a British airplane pursue the submarine.

Knox Smells Newsprint.

COLONEL KNOX'S chief trouble is that as an old newspaperman he is just too anxious to burst into print. He can smell a good story blocks away and when he does so the old fire comes into his eyes and he isn't happy until he makes the next edition. (Of course we can sympathize with him on this; but we are running a column, not the navy.)

Perhaps this is the explanation for the colonel's publicity gyrations in connection with battleship launchings. U. S. naval intelligence would like to know whether the Nazi battleships Friedrich der Grosse and Hindenburg have been launched. If our navy knew that, it would know how many battleships it should station in the Atlantic to meet them.

However, the Axis doesn't have to worry about checking on our battleships. For when a U. S. battleship is launched, Secretary Knox gets out the champagne and the radio speeches, and makes sure that the entire world knows about it. It saves the Nazis and the Japanese a lot of money and trouble on intelligence work.

And yet, when British warships arrived in U. S. harbors, Colonel Knox demanded that the American press hush up the facts, even though everyone around the waterfront knew all about them.

Admirals Hate Him.

IT SHOULD not be held against Knox that some of the admirals hate him. The admirals are usually resentful of any civilian secretary of the navy, and sometimes the measure of their dislike is a gauge of his ability.

In the case of Colonel Knox, however, the resentment is partly over the colonel's untimely publicity, partly over the political appointments. There is a lot of grumbling over the fact that Jules James, nephew of Secretary of War Stimson, was promoted to an admiral; that Admiral Wilson Brown was jumped from White House aide to superintendent of the naval academy, and that the president's naval aides usually graduate to lush posts. These promotions may not be Knox's fault, but he gets the blame.

King vs. Knox.

OF LATE there is one section of the navy department virtually barred to Knox, even though he is secretary of the navy. This is the wing of the building ruled by Admiral King, commander of the United States fleet.

This part of the navy functions entirely on its own—even has its own kitchen in case officers have to work all night. No civilians are permitted to enter. And if the secretary of the navy wants to get by the marine standing on guard, he has to telephone in advance.

King and Knox go through the motions of observing the amenities, but there is no love lost between them.

In ordinary peace times, Knox would be a reasonably good secretary of the navy. But today, when a slip can be disastrous and when coordinated unity is needed more than ever before, the rough-riding, tough-talking colonel is a misfit. Perhaps realizing this, Knox several times has told the president he wanted to resign.

(Another in the series of columns on the "Four Old Men" will appear soon.)

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON sewed for soldiers twenty-five years ago, and now she's doing it again.

Every Wednesday morning, she meets at the swank Sulgrave club for Red Cross sewing with Mrs. Jesse Jones, and Mrs. D. Buchanan Merriman, better known as the Duchess of Windsor's "Aunt Bessie."

After the sewing, they lunch at the club, then adjourn to Mrs. Jesse Jones' apartment at the Shoreham hotel, or to Mrs. Wilson's home on S. street, for bridge.

The lady who, as "the beautiful widow Galt," set all the town talking during World war I, still sets the town talking wherever she appears today. She gives her name freely to Democratic party and patriotic causes, but her most regular activity is providing floral decorations for the Wilson shrine at the National Cathedral. She has made a study of floral arrangements, personally supervises the decoration every few days.

Measured by the code of the cave dwellers, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is an active woman, but she stares in amazement at the activity of the First Lady of World war II.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in war time:

There's no end to the red tape stories told around here now, but I like the one that happened to me the other day. I had called one of Leon Henderson's bright boys to ask a simple question. He referred me to one of his co-workers.

"You can get him," he said, "by calling Republic 7500 and asking for extension 6702, 6753, or 6724 or 4382 or—oh, well, he has two or three more, but you should be able to get him on one of those if you'll just be patient."

WASHINGTON taxi cab drivers have a world-wide reputation for being more talkative, in a friendly way, than the proverbial barbers, but there is a motorman on one Pennsylvania avenue trolley that is stealing their stuff.

Coming down the other morning, he sang out merrily: "Twelfth street and the avenue. The Internal Revenue department. Pay your income tax."

ARCHIBALD MacLEISH, the poet who heads the office of facts and figures, is earning a reputation as a phrase-coiner. His latest: "The Borgia Bund"—a description of enemy radio propagandists who seek to poison the minds of the United Nations against one another. MacLeish says the technique is as old as Satan. One minute, the ether Borgias are on the air whispering lies to the United States about England, South America or Australia; a minute later, they are broadcasting similar poison to those nations about the United States.

Speaking of phrase making, I don't know who started it, but I heard it first from Sgt. Jimmy Cannon, of Fort Dix—I mean that reference to "the 4½-column." These, says Jimmy, are the people who really have no conscious intention of aiding the enemy, but who spend their waking hours crabbing about the government, the army, the navy, our allies, and all social and economic classes other than that to which they belong. They are the chief purveyors of the harmful rumor.

WHO hasn't passed one of those acres of twisted, rusty steel that used to be automobiles, and shaken his head and said: "What a shame." But as far as I know nobody ever had any greater interest in these "jalopy graveyards" than that they were—like the city dumps—public eyesores. Suddenly, over at Leon Henderson's OPA and in the offices of the War Production board, the jalopy graveyards have become one of the important subjects of daily discussion. So much so, that Henderson has seen fit to slap a price schedule on them. How many thousands of tons of scrap iron and steel are buried in these junk heaps, no one knows—but it is so much that the ordinarily affable Henderson has issued violent warning that he'll have no grave robbers speculating in those rusty skeletons.

A Farmer's Diary

Thoughts Go Along

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I NEVER leave my home on Honey Creek but what I may take some precious parts along.

Last night I travelled alone far along the western hills. With me I took the rhythmic sound of raindrops on the roof of our little cottage. The sprightly shower bore down from the slope, and again I heard the pattering sound of rain drench the forest leaves and pour off the tips of branches in clear pearly drops.

Honey Creek, with the banks brimming full, surged eastward like some living creature in great haste. Tall stately elms grew close along its banks and bore a silent message of rugged symmetry, balance, poise, personality. They seemed to whisper that I should not fret about the rushing stream, for they had seen it so often, through the centuries.

Our little gurgling spring came to my mind. It flows so full and free when freshets come. I saw the cardinal proudly flipping his scarlet wings in the brambly wild cherry, just above the clear cold water. The surface of the pond is ruffled by the heavy drops as they spatter and make bubbles that float uncertainly. Beneath the surface, long water lily stems stretch upward their reddish leaf buds.

Along my lonely way, I seemed to smell the fragrance of the good home garden soil, mingled with little clouds of wavering fog that came from the saturated earth . . . and I enjoyed to think of the proud lines of little sweet cherry and plum trees planted a year ago.

But best, I carry in my heart the lighted windows where the little oil lamp burns. I see the rapidly moving forms of my growing children at happy play—warm, clothed and fed. I see beaming upturned young faces at story time and tuck in the covers about four nightie-clad boys by the light of that same oil lamp that shines on the rough rafters. I hear the step of the woman who makes it home.

It is fine, isn't it, that a man may carry so much along.

DEFENSE WORKERS REQUIRE GOOD FOOD

Mrs. Julia Kiene Outlines Plan of "Health for Defense" Club for 350 Westinghouse Homemakers At Meeting Thursday.

REALIZING that they have three obligations to fulfill in the campaign to make America strong, 350 wives of homemakers of Westinghouse employes attended the initial meeting of the nation's first "Health for Defense" club in the company's auditorium Thursday afternoon.

Theirs is the difficult task of planning, purchasing and preparing healthful meals for defense workers.

Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of the Westinghouse home economics department, outlined her plans to provide energy-giving meals for a family of five on a budget of $14 per week. Beginning Monday, March 2, she will distribute to club members menus, recipes, and "helpful hints" for the coming month.

At the meeting yesterday, Mrs. Kiene explained the absolute necessity of "replacing an average diet with an adequate diet." She stated that a government survey in 1939 revealed that one-third of the people of the United States are undernourished. Not because of poor food, but because of poor food habits.

Mrs. Kiene cited instances in which the introduction of proper food habits had brought about cures of scurvey, beri-beri, pellagra and rickets. Scientists proved that these were due to diet deficiencies; they are not contagious.

Using charts for illustration, Mrs. Kiene impressed upon her audience the importance of saving vitamins in the foods purchased. She pointed out that enemies of vitamins are water, heat and air. Therefore, homemakers should remember that vitamin "defenders" are the following: (1) use little or no water; (2) bring to steam quickly; (3) do not boil violently; (4) cook in covered utensils; and (5) do not stir.

Results of experiments made with peas, potatoes, broccoli and carrots, were announced by Mrs Kiene. With the charts she showed that old-fashioned cooking wastes a large percentage of the vitamins which comprise "a substance in food essential to life." Therefore, she stressed the importance of new, "vitamized" or careful cooking.

"For every man on the front, there are 18 men at home working to supply him with the war materials he needs," said Mrs. Kiene. That is why it is so important that no manpower hours be lost by illness. That is why homemakers must take their job of planning, purchasing and preparing healthful meals very seriously. She added that for this reason, the home-maker, rests the future of America."

To further illustrate her comments, Mrs. Kiene displayed a typical energy-giving meal which had been placed on a dining room table.

Westinghouse homemakers who desire the booklets for menus for the month can obtain them by registering with Mrs. Kiene or her assistants, the Misses Katherine Rhoads and Charlotte Ferris in the reception room on the first floor of the H-building. Enrollment will start Monday. The menus and recipes can be secured between 1:30 and 4:30 p. m. on any day except Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

A club room especially for members of this unique organization will be used as headquarters as soon as it is ready, Mrs. Kiene announced. The women will be able to discuss the plan together.

In conclusion, Mrs. Kiene told the homemakers that this is the "biggest job for the defense of America that any group of women has ever done together."

Welfare Sewing To Be Done by Relief Corps

McLaughlin Women's Relief Corps members organized a sewing club at a meeting at Memorial hall Wednesday afternoon. Ida Hunter was elected president of the group. Plans were made to do welfare sewing at meeting of the group. Dinner was served at 6 p. m.

Bess Buchanan, corps president, conducted the business session held during the evening. Plans were made to make a service flag in honor of the boys in military service which will be hung in the club room. Ethel Constance was appointed to serve on a defense committee. Faye Stofer, patriotic instructor, gave a reading on the life of Washington.

During the session the president appointed standing committees for the year. They include Nettie Young, Katherine Yost and Alice Maxwell, flower committee; Mary Somers and Helen Glathart, radio; Faye Stofer, Clara Sickmiller and Louise Addlesperger, auditing; Ethel Constance, historian and Katherine Sattler, Mary Beilstein, Lenora Horn, Ethel Constance and Sarah Case, executive committee. The next regular meeting will be held March 11.

Mrs. Katherine Klinger presented several vocal solos. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Jeannette Schmid, Mrs. Emma Smith and Mrs. Bertha Snyder. The next meeting will be held March 11 with Mrs. Anna Spencer, Mrs. Edna Stauffer, Miss Louise Stoodt and Mrs. Olga Casey.

Swigart-Witchey Wedding Read In Napoleon In 1941

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swigart of Lexington, announced the marriage of their daughter, Geraldine, to Leslie E. Witchey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Witchey of this city, at a party at their home Wednesday evening. The couple exchanged nuptial vows May 3, 1941, in a double ring ceremony performed by Dallas Young in Napoleon.

For the wedding the bride was attired in a navy blue street length frock with navy and white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of roses. The couple is residing temporarily with the bride's parents. Mrs. Witchey was graduated from Lexington high school and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Witchey attended Ontario school and is employed at the Weatherhead company of Cleveland. Mr. and Mrs. Witchey will make their home in Cleveland in the near future.

'Health for Defense' Meal Shown

"Looks good!" That's what the youngsters told Mrs. Julia Kiene, of Westinghouse, when women at the first meeting of the "Health for Defense" club went onto the stage to see the table set with a suggested meal. Left to right the women in the above picture are Mrs. Verda Miller, route 5, Mrs. Virgil Frazier, Bahl avenue, holding her son, Tommy, and Mrs. Kiene. The other children are Ralph Frazier and Nancy Lou Leatherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Leatherman, Dias drive. The women are wives of Westinghouse employes.

Dr. Adda Liffring Speaks at Meeting

Mrs. H. R. Cummins, 773 Andover road, entertained members of the A T chapter of P. E. O at her home Wednesday morning. Twelve members were in attendance. Mrs. M. M. Feaman, president, conducted the business session.

Dr. Adda Liffring gave an interesting and informative paper on the founding of the P. E. O. At a supreme chapter convention of the P. E. O. groups held in Oklahoma City, in October, 1927, Cottey Junior College for Women in Nevada, Mo., was presented to the organization as a gift in memory of Miss Alice Virginia Cottey-Stockard, its founder. Miss Cottey, who later became Mrs. Stockard, taught school for ten years. In 1884 she went to Nevada, Mo., where they gave her land to construct a building with money she had saved, a building she had dreamed of for many years. In this way a one room building soon became a large college for women. A school where girls in the middle west could receive training.

In 1887 Cottey Junior College for Women was chartered by the state of Missouri. Mrs. Stockard became a members of P E. O., an organization whose main interest is education. When she discovered the organization colors and flower were the same as those chosen by her for Cottey college and learned about the group's educational fund, she decided she had found a group of women with the same ideas and aims as she had and the same educational purpose that had actuated her in the conduct of her school. In that spirit she gave Cottey College to the P. E. O. Sisterhood.

The school is now fully accredited by the North Central association. In 1936 a state scholarship plan was approved by the college trustees, for the awarding of scholarships, by state chapters, the award to go to the students from the upper one-tenth of the senior class of a high school. Forty students have received scholarships. A $20,000 endowment, which was a provision of the gift of the college, was paid from the surplus in the supreme chapter's treasury.

The next regular meeting of the local chapter will be held March 11 at the home of Mrs. Todd Patton, 581 Arlington avenue.

Gardenia Club Holds Meeting

Gardenia club members held a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Abbie Shade, 447 South Main street. Three guests, Mrs. Bessie De Yarmon, Mrs. Kenneth Mosier and Miss Beatrice Shade, were in attendance. Mrs Grace Shelenberger, president, conducted the business session.

Bunco was played and prizes won by Mrs. Howard Schuck and Mrs. Jane Beelman. A two-course luncheon was served at small tables decorated with patriotic appointments. The next meeting will be held March 11 at the home of Mrs. Beelman, 112 Atherton avenue.

B. and P. W. Glee Club Announces Program for Tea

Business and Professional Women's Glee Club members will present an interesting program of selections at their musicale tea to be presented at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday afternoon under the direction of Miss Myrtle Booth. Miss Mabel Zehner, organist, will be the assisting artist. The program will be opened with Miss Zehner playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

MISS MYRTLE BOOTH

She will then play "Concert Variations" by Bonnet, "A Song of India," by Rimsky-Korsakoff and "The Rippling Brook," by Gillette. Theme song of the glee club is an arrangement of Londonderry Air by Wilson. The glee club will then sing "Beautiful Dreamer" by Stephen Foster. "Now is the Mouth of Maying" by Thomas Morley, "Over the Rainbow" by Harburg-Arlen and "Nursery Rhyme Suite" by Custance.

Miss Zehner will present the ever-popular "Clair De Lune" by Debussy and "Humoresque" by Yon. Her last number in the group will be "Toccata" by Mulet. "Prayer" from "Haensel and Gretel" will then be presented by the glee club. They will also sing "The Kerry Dance" by James L. Molloy and arranged by Victor Harris and "I Heard a Forest Praying" by Peter De Rose. Concluding the program the glee club will offer the famous selection, "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan-Bartlett. The soprano obligato will be sung by Miss Estella K. Arras. Mrs Minnie Marks Cahall, pianist, will accompany the glee club. During the concluding numbers there will be piano and organ accompaniment.

FRANCES J. COSSUM WEDS ANDREW CLEVER

Couple Exchanges Nuptial Vows on Jan. 24 In Open Church Ceremony at Tenth Avenue Baptist Church In Columbus at 3 P. M.

IN THE Tenth Avenue Baptist church in Columbus on Jan. 24 Miss Frances Jean Cossum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Cossum of Columbus, exchanged nuptial vows with Andrew Franklin Clever, of Columbus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland R. Clever of near Mansfield. Rev. Harry G. Ford performed the ceremony at 3 p. m. before an altar attractively decorated with palms, ferns, a beauty basket of mixed flowers and two seven branched candelabra.

Miss Barbara Thornburg, vocalist, and a student at Miami university, and Mrs. Kenneth Probasco, organist, furnished nuptial music preceding and during the ceremony. For her wedding the bride wore a formal gown of ivory satin fashioned princess style with a sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. The neckline was trimmed with lace taken from the wedding dress of her grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Doster. Her fingertip veil was attached to a tiara of orange blossoms and old lace and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and white sweet peas centered with gardenias. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Marie De Spelder, maid of honor, and the Misses Harriett and Caroline Cossum, sisters of the bride, who served as bridesmaids, wore gowns fashioned alike. Miss De Spelder, attired in powder blue, carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Harriet Cossum wore aqua and Miss Caroline Cossum rose petal pink. They carried arm bouquets of spring flowers. Each girl wore a gold bracelet, a gift of the bride, and a tiara of flowers in her hair.

Miss Janet Doster, flower girl, wore a floor length frock of baby blue shadow organdy. She carried a basket of rose petals tied with a pink ribbon and wore a ring, a gift of the bride. Master Arthur Rogers, in navy blue and white, carried the ring on a white satin pillow. Ernest Kestner of Ashland was Mr. Clever's best man. Ushers were David Cossum, Dean Lemley, Robert Ringer and Mervin Scott of this city and Kenneth Thomas of Ashland.

Mrs. Cossum appeared at her daughter's wedding in a grey green redingote with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Clever wore a navy blue crepe frock with black accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents the couple left for a wedding trip in Florida. They are residing temporarily at 174 Chittenden avenue.

Mrs. Clever was graduated from North high school in Columbus and majored in foreign languages when she attended Ohio State university. Mr. Clever was graduated from Ashland high school and will receive his degree from the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University on March 20.

Mrs. Alexander Presents Paper For Program

Hostess to the Child Conservation club at her home Thursday was Mrs. Robert Dunson, 205 Marlow road. Mrs. G. E. Kalbfleisch was associate hostess. Seventeen members and one guest Mrs. Ruth Simon, were present.

Mrs. Robert Alexander, president, conducted the business session. A paper on "Helping A Child To Think" was given by Mrs. James Martin. Group discussion followed. Sewing was done for the Red Cross.

Green and white appointments were used on the luncheon table. Mrs. Donald Hattman will entertain on March 12 at her home, 213 Rhein avenue. Mrs. Ward Holbridge will assist.

Teachers Tell Of Vocational Work at School

When members of the P. T. A. Council met Wednesday evening, at Bushnell school, Mrs. R. M. Beatty presided for the business session. Mrs. C F. Farry, council representative on the Dental Clinic board, reported that the board has been offered a room in the health department, which will provide a central location for indigent children to have dental work done. The major problem now, she said, is to equip this room.

Announcement was made that the North Central District P. T. A. conference will be held on March 25 in Wellington. Date of the next council meeting will be changed to Thursday, March 26, because of the conference. The meeting will be held at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Mrs. Bertha Ashby Hess of the state Department of Health will be guest speaker. Members of all local P. T. A. units are invited to attend.

Miss Lucille Lorow gave a talk on her work in the vocational department at Bushnell school. Recent survey has revealed that girls trained in this course have proved efficient and dependable Academic subjects are correlated with work done by girls in home economics and by boys in the vocational department. Roy Spetka described his work and that of Frank Beenett in the boys department. The shop was visited after the program.

Mrs. D. O. Meese and Mrs. Milo Hieber presided at the table when tea was served in the dining room of the five-room home economics apartment.

Girls at Bushnell school have knitted 50 sweaters for the Red Cross.

Shower Given For Mrs. Rose, Recent Bride

Honoring her niece, Mrs Donald F. Rose, Mrs. C. A Hynson, 499 Glessner avenue, entertained 16 friends Wednesday evening Mrs. Rose is the former Miss Natalie Beal. A crystal shower was given for the honoree.

Contest prizes were won by the Misses Betty Smart, Betty Lou Thomas and Dorothy Norris. Bingo also was enjoyed. Luncheon was served at small tables. Patriotic decorations were used.

A poem read by Miss Smart directed Mrs. Rose to her gifts which were hidden beneath the full skirt of a doll's Martha Washington costume. The hostess presented an electrical gift to the honoree

Republicans Plan Dinner

Fifty members were present for the meeting in Radio City hall on Wednesday of the Richland County Council of Republican Women. A covered-dish dinner was enjoyed. Mrs Pearl Gettings presided for the business session Brief talks were given on "Our Part in the Defense Program" by Samuel Vining, Paul Eliot and W H. G. Kegg.

Plans were made for a Jitney dinner to be held Friday evening, March 27, at the hall Bingo games were played after the business session.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Saturday, February 28

THERE is every indication of continued progress, prosperity and opportunity. Contact with public, community or group political or diplomatic interests may enhance fortune and increase personal prestige and popularity. There is hint of over-generosity — excess spending for hospitality and pursuit of pleasure—which may invite openings for fraud, imposition, treachery and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of excellent opportunity for expansion and accumulation in funds, position, prestige and popularity, this in the public eye or with major corporations, groups or influential bodies. The tendency to lavish display and over-generosity may invite imposition, intrigue, duplicity and hidden enmities.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

There was but one thing for me to do as Olina's half hysterical voice came through the crack of the door, and I did it promptly.

Using the utmost caution, I drew the hall door of the Veritzen suite closely shut.

Then I sounded the Colonial knocker which decorated the door sounded it more loudly than I ordinarily would have done But it was several seconds before Olga opened the door to me.

She was regally poised, as always Only an extra bit of color in her cheeks, a tenseness in her eyes, betrayed that she had just passed through an emotional scene with her young daughter.

"How nice to see you again so soon!" she said cordially. "Do come in."

"Just for a second" I said, stepping into the hall, while she closed the door after me, evidently with no knowledge that I had found it open. "I must dash back immediately But my father wished me to give you an urgent message. When that personal arrives—the one spoken of in Olina's fan letter—he wishes to see it immediately."

"Could you tell me one thing?" She hesitated, and looked at me appealingly.

"If I know it myself," I parried.

Is Frightened.

"Do you think he is trying to guard the writer of this letter, or—to make trouble for him?"

'Never to make trouble," I said with conviction, "He said that if he were correct in his guess, the writer was in great danger. And I must tell you that I think he means to use that personal to get hold of the writer if he can."

Olga gave a frightened little cry

"Oh, he must not do that!" she said "But do not give him that message from me. Simply say that I will keep the personal for him, and will give it to him with my own hands That will insure my being able to talk to him before he takes possession of the personal."

But I had no time for conjecture about the letter All my speculation was focused upon the mysterious motor journey which my father was planning for me

"Well?" he demanded as I opened the door

Phone Call Interrupts.

"Olga will keep the personal for you and deliver it to you with her own hands," I said, not mentioning Olga's reaction to his proposal to use the personal as bait That, I felt, she could tell him herself, and I was not sure that I had been justified in revealing my father's purpose, although he had not warned me against repeating his words

"That is fine," he said "Now sit down and let me tell you—"

The telephone shrilled an interruption, and as I went toward it, I spoke quickly

"Probably that is Bob now."

I proved myself a true prophet. The voice of the operator came to my ears

"A Mr Robert—" the last name shithered into obscurity, but it did not matter—"is calling from New Haven, and wishes to reverse the charge to you. Will you accept the call?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

PROBABLE READINGS AID

Many pretty good players, who have made no intensive study of card reading, have an idea that the greatest experts are generally able to figure out the exact location of all important cards and the length of each outstanding suit after the play of a trick or two. That is not so On many an occasion it is impossible to reckon the exact distribution of suits, to say nothing of the location of key cards. Reckoning the most likely distribution, however, and the probable location of those cards, can be the decisive factor in lots of hands.

Pretty badly overbid, that hand by South but he had some justification. His not-vulnerable opponents sounded as if they were just trying to impede him, so he attributed more strength to his partner than the latter held, especially after the ace-showing cue bid of clubs brought in answer the shower of the diamond control, and the response to his Blackwood 4-No Trumps showed the missing ace But, after West doubled and led the diamond K, and he saw the dummy South knew West was not fooling

Then South began to figure, thus: "West probably would not have bid No Trump with a singleton, and he probably would have supported the hearts over the 4-Clubs, to show a sacrifice fit, if he held three of them, hence he probably had two. If he held a five-card suit anywhere, he probably would have bid it instead of No Trumps Hence he probably had two four-carders and a three-carder besides two hearts If the three-carder is spades, I have a good play for it."

After that analysis he took the diamond K with the A, ruffed one diamond, took the club A, ruffed a club, ruffed a second diamond, ruffed a second club, ruffed a third diamond, cashed the heart A and K, ruffed the third club, then led the set-up diamond 8 to the tenth trick. East ruffed with the spade 2, but West had to over-ruff with the 4 and then lead back from the spade K-10 into the A-Q, giving the declarer his contract.

Brown Starts Spring Work

Ohio State Gridders Report For Training.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Football will be a serious business at Ohio State university from March 6 to May 16, Coach Paul E. Brown declared today as he invited 60 players out for the indoor and outdoor spring drills.

The 60 candidates — 33 freshmen, 24 sophomores and three juniors —will have eight indoor sessions March 6 to 16, and then will swing to the outdoors March 30-May 16, when the spring clinic game winds up the early preparations.

"I cannot impress upon you too much the seriousness with which we are entering this spring program," Brown told the candidates in a personal letter to each. As a coaching staff, we are going to dedicate everything we have to building this football team. Any failure to report simply means that your football career is over."

The youthful mentor said that "every man must report for spring football who plans to play football next fall. I am the only person who can give you an excuse for any absence. Upper classmen and current freshmen now are considered alike. The 11 best players will be on the first team. Plan on a long, tough session."

Emphasizing the importance of spring drills, Brown said: "The time to make this football team is in the spring. When men are invited to report back in the fall, it is simply a process of reassembling the parts as they were put together in spring football. Do not plan to go home on week-ends while spring football is in session. We shall be playing games practically every Saturday afternoon."

Brown said his team would be much lighter than the 1941 squad, and hinted that "we might be fighting for our lives out there." The tackles, he said, were especially light for Big Ten play, the heaviest candidate weighing only 206.

* * *

Tackle Don McCafferty, Center Bill Vickroy and Halfback Leslie Horvath are the only seniors available for next fall's squad, and there's a chance that Horvoth will not play because of a change in his academic schedule. Seven members of the squad will sandwich some track work in with their spring football chores, Bob Shaw being the headliner in that field. Shaw, regular football end, will toss the shot and discus for Coach Larry Snyder's thin-clads.

Others invited to the spring drills (Brown emprasized the list was not complete) were:

Freshmen: Gordon Appleby, Martin Amling, Tom Antenucco, Eli Broglio, Spiro Dellerbra, Phil Drake, Jack Dugger, Ken Eichwald, Eugene Kekete, Don Fetter, Elwood Fitz, Horace Gillom, William Hackett, Dick Heller, Robert Jabbusch, Thomas James, Earl Kelly, Ted Keragеorge Dick Kingham, Danta Lavelli, Cyril Lipaj, Warren McDonald, Paul Friday, James Rees, Paul Selby, George Slusser, Cecil Souders, Thomas Taylor John White, Robert Wigor, William Willis, Melvin Wukotich.

Jumors: Leslie Horvath, Don McCafferty, Bill Vickroy.

PURDUE WINS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind (AP) — Purdue beat Indiana 33½ to 30½, in a Big Ten indoor track meet last night. The Hoosiers won seven of 11 individual events and the mile relay, but the Boilermakers got points on second and third places.

McCORMICK MISSES

TAMPA, Fla —(AP)— Frank McCormick, slugging first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds who didn't slug last year, took six straight swings without hitting the pitches of a robot hurler. So a native yelled: "Let Hank Gowdy (coach) throw him a few grapefruits."

PICKS CUBS, REDS

AVALON, Cal — (AP) — General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Chicago Cubs predicts that the Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds will fight it out for the 1942 National league pennant unless the armed services draw on the Cubs' key men.

INVEST IN BONDS

OKMULGEE, Okla — (UP) — Euchee and Creek Indians of Oklahoma in a special assembly in the intertribal council here have voted to spend $400,000 for defense bonds. They voted unanimously to turn over the money, now on deposit in Washington, to the government.

Special FBI agents apprehended more than 2,600 federal fugitives from justice in the last fiscal year.

THE DOG HOUSE WAR SONG

(Original)

Hitler stuck his neck out.
The Japs they tried it, too,
So now we have to show them
What they can and cannot do.

It take a lot to make us fight,
But there's nothing we can do,
When these boys hit us where it hurts.
But bid friendships adieu.

There's not so many of us,
A hundred million or two,
But they will think all - - - - broke loose
Before we say we're through.
Chorus:
They asked to get,
What they're goin' to get,
In a way they'll never forget.
When our boys get to those boys, it will be like a hungry bunch at The Dog House ordering long hot dogs—they're going to eat them up.

ORGANIZES CLUB

Group Formed To Help In Civilian Defense.

Organization of the Colony Round Table club for the purpose of furthering the interests of civilian defense was completed Wednesday night at a meeting in the home of Mrs. W. M. Stark, 365 Park avenue west.

Members of the group are the 12 families residing in White Hall, and the Stark residence, and their guests. Named as chairman of the group at the meeting last night was Dr. Robert H. Frey.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield civilian defense chairman, will address the group at its next meeting, Wednesday, March 11. Arrangements also are being made for the organization to receive first aid training.

Following its organization session, the club last night conducted a round-table discussion on the subject, "All out for the war—its effect on our daily life."

County Clerk to Assume License, Rationing Duties

Howard Wenning, Richland county clerk of courts, had added two more duties today—both a part of the wartime program.

The Ohio State Defense council designated the county clerk's office to receive the initial supply of sugar rationing literature which will be mailed within a few days for use by teachers and school officials in charge of the rationing.

Wenning has been named by the department of interior as the federal explosives licensing agent for Richland county. His office will receive 25 cents for each license issued.

Licenses for using explosives will be issued only to law enforcement officers and other responsible persons who must prove their identity and give evidence that the explosives will not be used for sabotage.

SAVER FOR TIMEPIECE

THEATERS

Unique Cartoon.

"Mr. Bug Goes to Town," a full-length technicolor cartoon dealing with as interesting a community of insects as anyone could imagine, opens at the Madison tomorrow. All the elements of human drama are found in the cartoon which has its hero, heroine, villain and all the problems in which such a trio is ordinarily involved. The housing problem is not overlooked for the erection of every new house by humans is a threat to existence. Hoagy Carmichael helped supply the brilliant musical score. "Suspicion," with Joan Fontaine and Cary Grant is the second film.

Swashbuckling Yarn.

The blazing story of an unknown youth who rises from stable boy to ruler of a South sea island is depicted in Tyrone Power's new picture, "Son of Fury," opening Saturday at the Ohio. Power plays the swashbuckling role of the youth who deserts England to sail the seven seas and eventually win a place for himself. A brilliant cast headed by Gene Tierney in the role of a native girl supports Power. George Sanders as a sadistic nobleman, Elsa Lanchester, John Carradine and Roddy McDowall, the child actor, in "How Green Was My Valley," are other players.

GEN. JOHNSON: Charges OCD Head Breaks His Promise

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON - A few days ago this column commented on the atrocious injustice of the government's "freezing" in the 40,000 dealers' hands some odd thousands of new cars and light trucks which they held for sale to their customers.

Gen. Johnson.

Now comes O. P. A. with a plan to let the dealers sell 43 per cent of their cars in equal monthly quotas spread over three months. They must apparently hold the other 57 per cent and spread their sale over the rest of the year.

This "liberal" ration, the announcement says, is to provide a small reserve for the convenience of government and to "cushion the terrible impact x x x of the sudden stoppage x x x on automobile dealers."

That is almost like adding a taunt to an injury. Very few dealers pay for their whole stock in cash. A lot of it is continuously in hock to a finance company on a "floor plan," usually on short term credit. Almost every sale is accompanied by a "trade-in" and a considerable part of the dealers' investment is tied up in used cars. They are also partly frozen.

Care of both used and new cars, some depreciation, the expenses of doing business, housing and eventually paying the debt for them also hangs over the dealers' heads. The "carrying charges" alone usually figure at from $20 to $25 a month a car—or did when I was in that business, and later when I again saw the inside of it in NRA.

Now all this "freezing" business is wholly and solely for the benefit of the government, as the announcement shows. There is no "liberality" to the dealer except in prolonging his agony. On the contrary, it might save his own financial life if he could sell this little snag of cars tomorrow.

These automobiles are complete and finished. They will use up no more strategic material. Hardly a single digestible excuse has been offered for the cruel, arbitrary freezing order. It will throw hundreds of thousands out of employment and ruin tens of thousands of small employers.

If the government needs to have those cars carried in a reserve pool why doesn't it buy them or at least assume the charges for carrying them? It would cost nothing in the long run and an advance of less than half a billion dollars now.

It would aid the morale of a million disgruntled citizens who feel cheated by their own government for which they stand ready to make any reasonable sacrifice.

But this is unreasonable. The government has no more right to confiscate the capital of these people by this slow process of strangulation without compensation than it would have to reach into your bank account and take it over by a more rapid grab.

The almost utter disregard by this war administration of the rights of these citizens materially differs just here from that of 1917 and 1918. Then, by the president's precept the war agencies were warned over and over again that it was a principal part of their duty to preserve civilian morale against unnecessary restrictions.

Not a price was fixed for government purchases without applying the same price to the associated powers and to all the people of the United States. Not a harsh and restrictive step was taken that its effect on the general public was not considered and reported to the president in advance.

This time we have an office of civilian supply too but did you ever hear of its doing anything along that line? I never did and I'll bet you have forgotten who is responsible for it? Well it is Leon Henderson, chief of the office of price administration who is author also of this conscription by freezing.

Maybe he just hasn't got around to this angle. Otherwise I think he has done one of the best and bravest jobs in the whole outfit.

30 PER CENT BOOST IN WAR OUTPUT SEEN

Henderson Predicts That Big Outlay Will Reduce U. S. Level of Living.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders disclosed today that a 30 per cent increase in war production had been charted for the next four months in a progressive speedup that is expected to boost military expenditures to nearly $5,000,000,000 monthly by the end of the year.

Senator McKellar (D. Tenn), floor manager for a $32,762,737,900 military money bill pending before the senate, said the appropriations committee had been informed that a total of $13,684,000,000 would be spent for war purposes in the five-month period from January 31 to June 30. This would compare, he said, with $16,000,000,000 spent from July 1, 1940, up to February 1, 1942.

The treasury reported that defense expenditures for January were approximately $2,100,000,000 and this amount would have to be raised to an average of $2,737,000,000 for February and the next four months, or an increase of 30 per cent, in order to attain the new goal.

Committee members said they expectd much more rapid acceleration of expenditure in the latter part of the year, in keeping with President Roosevelt's $56,000,000,000 war budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

(Price Administrator Leon Henderson, speaking in New York last night, said that 1942 war production would cost the nation more than $50,000,000,000 and soar to at least $75,000,000,000 in 1943. Because of the vast outlay necessary, Henderson predicted the "level of living" in the United States would sink quickly below the lowest point of the last depression.)

McKellar told the senate yesterday that "practically all" of the $23,485,000,000 allocated to the war department in the pending money bill would be poured out in this calendar year.

In addition, he said, most of the $1,502,000,000 allocated to the maritime commission would be translated into new cargo ships in that period and all of the direct lend-lease appropriations of $5,245,000,000 would be spent before 1943.

Senator Taft (R. Ohio) expressed doubt that $13,684,000,000 worth of war materials and services could be produced before July 1.

A letter requesting 50 copies of the Feb. 17 issue of The News-Journal containing stories and photographs of the Congregational church fire was received by The News-Journal today from Irving S. Hoffman, former manager of the Central Union Telephone company in Mansfield and now general agent in Cleveland for an insurance company. Aside from the fact that he and his late wife were members of the church for many years, Hoffman explained he was interested because he directed the installation of the unique telephone system in the church which was described in one of the articles on the fire. The News-Journal circulation department was unable to fill the request, because all copies for Feb. 17 were exhausted despite an additional run.

War and defense is seeping into every phase of civilian life and at last it's getting into your hair. At least it's getting into the hair of a number of Mansfield women. The newest hair-do seen about the streets these days is the "bombshell," so named because it's supposed to look like a lot of curls "spattered on your head." The more conservative Mansfield girls call it a "feather-bob" but it still packs punch.

All the things that go into a sewing kit such as needles, pins, scissors, buttons, and dressmaker pins are being rounded up by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross for the kits or "housewives" to be made for Richland county men entering the service this year. The chapter expects to furnish material for approximately 1,500 kits to organizations and individuals wishing to make them but is counting on public generosity to furnish the equipment. Only certain types of equipment can be used and donors may obtain specific information by calling the Red Cross Production Center.

Richland county commissioners think the national capital is already over-crowded so they were planning today to turn down an invitation to attend a civilian defense meeting for county officials in Washington on March 9 and 10. The invitation came this morning in a telegram to C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners. "There wasn't anything said about getting our expenses paid on the trip, so I guess we'll not plan to go," Mitchell said. "Besides, we heard you can't get a hotel room in Washington." The meeting was called by the governmental requirements bureau "to develop county needs in relation to national and local civilian defense."

SEN. M'KELLAR SAYS FUNDS GO FOR 'FRIZZES'

Asserts Money Being Used For Entertainment Contrary To Law.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Accusing Civilian Defense Director James Landis of "misleading" him, Sen. McKellar, (D.) Tenn., charged today that the OCD head has broken his promise to eliminate "prizes and furbelows" in civilian defense, and is now spending money for entertainment in violation of law.

Landis, who testified before the joint congressional economy committee, denied McKellar's assertion.

The name of Melvyn Douglas, movie star, was injected into the hearings when Landis explained that as head OCD art consultant the movie actor seeks to provide talent for government agencies.

McKellar asserted that Douglas was being employed for entertainment purposes in violation of a promise.

"He is not being paid as an entertainer," replied Landis. "He is being paid to chanel talent into government service."

Douglas, he said, receives no compensation but is entitled to transportation costs and $10 a day subsistence while working.

Sen. Byrd, (D.) Va., chairman, brought out that Daniel Lang, former free lance newspaper writer is employed to travel about the country "digging up" human interest stories on OCD activities. "Is this defense?" asked Senator Byrd.

"I think it might be," replied Landis, "because getting across to cities what other cities are doing is an important job."

"I think you are violating the law," McKellar said. "The appropriation bill recently passed provided you should not carry on instruction, dancing, and entertainment. This certainly is public entertainment."

"I understood the limitation applied only to part of the fund," said Landis.

"Then you are using other funds to carry on activities congress said that you could not carry on by the recent law," said McKellar.

"In a sense that is right," said Landis.

McKellar asserted that Landis had promised during recent hearings that he would abolish educational and entertainment activities and thus mislead him, but Landis denied this accusation.

"You have two funds and you are indirectly evading congress by spending money for prohibited activities," exclaimed McKellar.

PLANS $8,000 BOND PURCHASE

Firemen's Pension Board Asks Council To Pave Way For Investment of Funds.

Trustees of the Mansfield Firemen's Relief and Pension board have requested city council to appropriate $8,000 from the fire pension surplus fund to be used for the purchase of U. S. defense bonds.

Frank R. Stahl, secretary of the pension board, filed with R. R. Black, clerk of council, yesterday a communication to be presented to council at its meeting next Tuesday.

Funds for the pension board are raised each year by a levy fixed annually by council and by an assessment of two per cent of the firemen's wages. State law limits the tax to .3 mills but for the past several years, council has held the rate to between .16 and .22 mills, it was explained.

This gives the pension board approximately $9,000 with which to operate annually. A surplus of approximately $11,000 has been built up and is released to the pension board by council when needed.

According to Stahl, the board needs its $9,000 for operating expenses but wants council to release $8,000 of the $11,000 surplus so that it can be used to purchase defense bonds.

NEW REGIONAL OCD HEAD CALLS FOR COORDINATED DEFENSE PLAN

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Dan T. Moore, regional administrator for the securities and exchange commission, today was appointed regional director of the office of civilian defense for Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

The appointment was made in Washington by OCD Director James M. Landis after consultation with President Roosevelt.

Moore, 34, succeeds Frazier Reams, internal revenue collector at Toledo who has been OCD's acting regional director with headquarters at Columbus. The new regional director was head of the Ohio state securities division before becoming regional SEC director several years ago.

"I expect to spend all of my time on this job," Moore commented. "It's a full-time job."

"There is a great need for a coordinated civilian defense effort on the part of the whole area. Now there are probably several thousand councils, directors, committees and subcommittees, many of which may be acting at cross purposes.

"The president tells us this inland area is in danger and I believe it is in danger. We can't afford to sit back and wait until we are bombed."

A native of Washington, Moore came to Ohio in June, 1937, after the chief of Ohio's securities commission was ousted from office and Gov. Martin L. Davey contacted Landis, then SEC chairman, for help in reorganizing the department. Landis recommended Moore, then working for the SEC in Washington.

On Dec. 1, 1938, Moore came to Cleveland to become regional SEC administrator. He said today he would retain this position nominally, but would delegate his duties to a key subordinate.

DECLINE AGAIN

County Sales Tax Revenue $1,738 Below 1941.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county continued a downward trend during the second week of February, dropping $1,738 below collections for the corresponding week of last year.

Retail sales in the county for the week turned $8,783 into the state treasury as compared with $10,521 in the second week of February, 1941. Receipts in the county for the first six weeks of this year fell $1,200 below the same period last January and February.

The week ending Feb. 14 was the first this year in which statewide sales tax collections have shown a decline from the corresponding week of 1941. The decline amounted to $48,409 for the week and was accounted for largely by the freezing of automobile and tire sales.

Red Cross Ships 1,435 Garments For War Zones

Another shipment of warm clothing, both sewed and knitted, left Mansfield yesterday for the New Jersey warehouse of the American Red Cross to be directed to war zones for the relief of distressed civilians.

Sweaters for men, women and children, convalescent robes, dresses for women and children and boys' jumper suits, shirts and shorts were among the 1,435 garments made under the direction of Richland county chapter of the Red Cross.

Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary, said that increased volunteer service at the production center was responsible for this shipment of 13 cartons which followed closely on the heels of a previous shipment.

Fifty of the 90 convalescent robes in the shipment were made through the courtesy of the Alpagore Manufacturing company of Galion after the Mansfield Charity club had arranged with the company to manufacture them.

Kilgallen

Ability—The thing you've got so much of it's surprising it goes unnoticed.

Bore—The fellow who starts talking about you but winds up talking about him.

Breaking Records—What every picture does at the Music Hall and every swing band at the Paramount. Can also be attained by individual night club entertainers who have (1) great talent and, or, (2) a great press agent.

Celebrity Night—a cafe institution. An occasion on which any one sober enough to get to his feet is asked to take a bow.

Diseuse—A chanteuse who can't carry a tune.

Decollette—Anything this side of Margie Hart.

Debutante—Any girl between 17 and 25 who gets her picture taken at the Stork club, El Morocco, Coq Rouge, Waldorf, Pierre, St. Regis, or Hamburger Heaven.

Encore—Another ten minutes of "entertainment" which the performer does either because the audience insists on it—or because HE insists on it.

Genius—Anyone who can write on the back of the menu at Lindy's.

Held Over—Term referring to a performer who plays more than one week at a supper club—sometimes because the management can't get rid of him for contract reasons, possibly because it couldn't find a replacement.

Impresario—Producer of one or more amusement projects boasting one or more hired hands.

Intimate Room—Ever been in a smoke-filled phone booth with a piano?

International Chanteuse—A singer who's looked for work in several foreign countries.

Legitimate Theaters—The kind with small lobbies and hard seats.

Latin Atmosphere—A pair of maracas.

Maestro—The one man in the orchestra who can't read music.

Master of Ceremonies—The lad who moves the microphone around a night club floor and gets in the way of the entertainment. Can be identified instantly by his native call, which begins, "At-this-time-ladies-and-gentlemen-it- gives me-great-pleasure -to-present -a-little-lady-who—."

Minimum Charge—The maximum charge a cafe can get away with.

KILLED IN CRASH

Brinkhaven Man Fatally Hurt In Accident Near Toledo.

MILLERSBURG — Lyman Troyer, 45, of nearby Brinkhaven was fatally injured, and two companions critically hurt, yesterday when the car in which they were returning from a meeting in Toledo was demolished by a skidding truck on Woodville road, 13 miles southeast of Toledo.

Troyer died in a Toledo hospital from multiple fractures sustained in the accident. In the hospital in serious condition are Edward Bader, Coshocton, and George L. Miller of Wooster, driver of the car.

State highway patrolmen said they were told by Carl Bleckert of Cleveland, that his empty dump truck skidded out of control and plunged head-on into the car.

Surviving Troyer are his widow, Leota; a son, James, and a daughter, Norma Jean, at home and two brothers and four sisters, all of Akron.

The body was removed to the Elliott funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

Lucas Upsets Plymouth In County Tourney Opener

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The Sporting News this week has many nice things to say about Mansfield's Johnny Barrett, star outfielder and slugger of the Ohio State league champion Red Sox in the early days of the Class D circuit.

Our John was purchased last fall from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league by the Pittsburgh Pirates, and is being counted on by Manager Frankie Frisch as a regular gardener with the Bucs this coming season.

Here's the way the Sporting News tells it:

"Frisch had so many fine reports on Outfielder Johnny Barrett, he ordered him to report with the sharpshooters and catchers. Barrett was one of the outstanding performers in the Pacific Coast league last season, comes up with a better than .300 batting mark, hits from the Ty Cobb side of the plate, and also flings the sphere with his left arm.

"Coast league operatives have posted some fancy lithographs on Barrett, who is a native of Lowell in dear old Massachusetts. Johnny was off to a slow start, but in the last two months of the season was hitting close to a .400 clip to finish in the .300 society for the long Coast league schedule.

"Johnny originally was a promising Red Sox farm hand, Hugh Duffy being his sponsor. He starred at Mansfield, O., and Scranton, Pa., on Red Sox farms before he was promoted to Louisville.

"Eventually he was transferred to San Francisco where he showed sufficient class to cause the Red Sox to call him in, but Boston also plucked Dom DiMaggio from the Seals, and the first thing Barrett knew he was a member of the Hollywood club.

"A lot of shenanigans take place in the councils of the diamond sport. It seems that Bill Sweeney, then manager of Hollywood, was deeply impressed with young Barrett when he played for the Seals. Bill is well liked by the Red Sox folks and through some kind of a maneuver, Louisville, a Boston affiliate, recalled Johnny from the Seals, and he was ordered to report to Hollywood.

"Barrett appeared to be tickled that he was sent to the Cinema City where Hollis Thurston would be close to him. Thurston, representative of the Pirates on the coast, watched Johnny in many of his Hollywood games, and became convinced that the New Englander was just about what the doctor ordered for Boss Frisch.

"Barrett can play center or right with efficiency. He is a swell base runner, and he is a strong youngster who appears to have a deep love for the game. The newcomer is saying little, but his actions indicate he will make a strong bid for one of the regular outfield berths."

Unquote the Sporting News. There you have Johnny's history up to date. Now keep your eye on him with the Pirates this summer while you're also checking up on those other former Mansfielders, Steve Gromek and Hank Edwards, with the Cleveland Indians.

* * *

But the Sporting News doesn't tell all about Johnny Barrett's history.

I'm informed that John grew up in an orphanage back there in Lowell, Mass., and while in the home he developed into a track star with the speed of a deer.

Hugh Duffy saw him run, learned that he was left handed, and talked him into trying baseball as a pastime. That's how Mansfield got him.

Butler, Shiloh, Union Win

Two Overtime Periods Needed By Drummers

By REX HESS
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

RICHLAND county high schools opened their annual basketball tournament last night at Mansfield Senior high gym with a thrill-packed program before a gym-jammed crowd of 1,200, capacity for the county seat court.

The thrills lasted clear up to—and after—the final gong of the final game about 12:25 a. m. today, as the county league's last place teams, Shiloh and Ontario, battled to a double overtime, protested decision in the evening's finale.

Results of the first round of tournament play:

Butler 28, Bellville 16.
Union 32, Lexington 19.
Lucas 26, Plymouth 23.
Shiloh 24, Ontario 22.

Saturday afternoon Butler will meet Union at 1:30 and Lucas will tangle with Shiloh in the second game of the semi-finals at 2:30. Winners of these two teams will go to the district Class B tournament next week at Bascom, but they'll meet Saturday night for the county tourney title at 9 o'clock, while losers will be battling for consolation honors at 8 o'clock.

Those two neighborhood rivals, Bellville and Butler, opened last night's cage wars, and for one half they battled in true Blue Jay-Bulldog fashion. However the third quarter saw Coach Guy Van Nostrand's Butler bucketballers pull away to a commanding lead and there was never any question thereafter as to the ultimate winner.

Butler held an 8-5 lead in the first quarter, and offense was slowed to a standstill in the next period, Butler still leading at the half 10-7.

Then Pritchard and Hoover and the Forbes boys started hitting, and the Bulldogs ran the count to 20-12 at the third quarter mark, and led at one time 20-8. Butler coasted to its final 28-16 win, spending most of the last stanza in passing the ball around.

Junior Pritchard led the Butler attack with 12 points, and George Stoodt paced the Jays with six.

Second game between Union and Lexington followed the blueprint of the opener, with Union taking a slight lead in the first two periods, and then racing to a game-winning margin in the third heat.

This game saw the tempo of floor action stepped up as both clubs used fire-wagon tactics, compared with the slower set-offense used by Butler and Bellville.

Union edged to a 6-5 lead at the quarter, and boosted it to 13-9 at the half. Then the Indians went on the warpath and increased the lead to 23-13 at the third quarter, which was enough to win right there.

Jim Oswalt, sucker-shot artist, sank the Minutemen's hopes by chalking up 18 points for the Redskin's, which was the tourney's high scorer for opening night. Creps led Lexington with seven.

Lucas Cubs pulled the real upset of the night with a 26-23 victory over the county league's second ranking Plymouth Pilgrims, a victory that wasn't decided until the last few minutes of play.

The two teams were tied 6-6 at the quarter, but the Pilgrims stepped out to an 11-9 margin at the half. The Cubs came charging back and once more tied it up at 20-20 at the close of the third period.

Then came the fireworks. Bill Reed scored a bucket for Plymouth, but Dick Baer and Bob Barger tied it up again with a pair of free points for Lucas with four minutes and 20 seconds left to play.

Barger put Lucas in front with a follow shot with only two minutes and 45 seconds left. Reed got a free point, but Barger put the game on ice with a long shot from the side.

Barger was the outstanding star for Lucas with 16 points, while Dick Rule paced Plymouth with eight.

Then came the Ontario-Shiloh thrillers starting well after 11 o'clock.

Shiloh showed the best early foot with an 8-4 lead in the first quarter, but Jack Elliott tallied four buckets in the second stanza to give Ontario a 14-13 edge at the half. At the third period they were all tied up at 17-17, and the end of regulation playing time saw them still tied at 20-20.

Charles Hellinger got an early busket for Ontario in the first overtime and the Warriors attempted to stall. But the Drummer Boys got hold of the apple, and a shot by Bob Hamman was in the air as the horn honked, knotting it up agin at 22-22.

Gene Russell, Shiloh guard, fired a long shot from the side in the second overtime, and it was sudden death for Ontario.

Before the second overtime was played, Coach Orville Kibler of Ontario announced the game was being played under protest because Coach Charles Steidle of Shiloh went out on the floor and talked to his boys between the two extra periods. Steidle said he had the permission of the officials, and it is not likely the protest will be allowed.

Notre Dame Ends Backfield Shift

SOUTH BEND — (AP) — Notre Dame will discard its backfield shift, an established part of the football system that has made it a gridiron power for 30 years, and replace it with the orthodox "T" formation.

Frank Leahy, getting ready for spring practice for his second season as coach, announced the change.

He said Angelo Bertelli of West Springfield, Mass., star sophomore passer of the unbeaten 1941 team, would be moved from left halfback to quarterback to become key man in the new play.

EDWARDS LEADS INDIAN ROOKIE BATTING STARS

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' batting practice is featuring the efforts of four rookies: Henry Edwards, late of the Three-Eye league; Oris Hockett, Edwards' rival for the extra fielding job; Les Fleming, who appears to have the inside track for first base, and Catcher Otto Denning.

Burskey Paces Westie-C Loop

Shoup Chalks Up High Game of 220 Pins.

JIMMY FOXX REPORTS FOR TRAINING TODAY

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx, who doesn't appear to be worrying about his first base job with the Boston Red Sox, starts his 18th season today.

"I have taken off 15 pounds this winter and now am down to 190," he said. "I never felt better but I guess it will be a good idea to get a week's start on the kids after my job and work myself into playing shape in easy strides."

Cage Crown On the Block

Mt. Union Can Capture Title By Kenyon Win.

(By Associated Press)

The Ohio conference basketball title goes on the block tonight when Mt. Union's defending champions meet Kenyon.

The Purple Raiders are set to wrap up the crown before the home fans, but an upset victory by the Lords would give Capital the title.

The Mounds and Capital are tied in the league race with 12 wins and one loss each, but the Lutherans, their season ended, must pin their hopes on Kenyon, which is given little chance to knock off the title holders.

Victories by top-heavy scores—highlighted by Findlay's 73-47 win over Heidelberg — marked Ohio college cage games last night.

Led by Guard Jack Larkins, who chalked up 19 points, Findlay rolled up its biggest score of the year. The Oilers, playing on their home court, led 31-17 at the half. Forward Razza Hoerneman of Heidelberg got 16 points.

In the only other Ohio conference meet Denison finished its season at Granville by downing Marietta 53-42. The lead changed four times before Denison piled up a 31-24 half-time margin. Forward Bob Gray of Denison scored 17 points.

* * *

Youngstown defeated Kent State, 52 to 39, in a game spotlighted by 35 personal fouls, three each against Youngstown's first stringers. Youngstown led at the half, 24-13.

Forward Richetto was high with 16 points for visiting Youngstown.

Akron ran up a 39-21 half-time advantage, then coasted to a 61-52 victory over Ohio Wesleyan at Akron. Bishop forward Myron Hamilton and Zipper guard Flossie each garnered 15 points.

Jones Quintet Breaks Three-Way Deadlock.

Jones Chris-Crafts went back into the lead in the Commercial "B" bowling league at Colony alleys, breaking a three-way tie with Kent Rummel and Ringside Nite club, by scoring a 2-1 win while the other two clubs were dropping 1-2 decision.

* * *

Funston rolled the league's high total with 641 on games of 202-214-224. Burton chalked up a 633 total, Fritz Vogel had 616, Jones 612, Doolittle 613, and Chris Herrick 602, a lot of 600's for the "B" league.

* * *

Kutchall had high game of 235, Herrick had 234, Vogel 233, and Glenn Lanning, sr., 232 in a hot race for top honors.

LEO JOSEPH ROCHE

MAKE YOUR MONEY COUNT FOR VICTORY

The one fast, sure way that you and everyone can help to win this war is by buying bonds, bonds, and more bonds. Your money will help give our fighting forces the guns and tanks and planes they need and must have to heap destruction on the Axis terrorists. Your Dollars Will Fight for You!

But time is short—there is not a moment to lose. Our enemies are striking fast and hard. So dig deep! Start buying U. S. Defense Bonds and Stamps today—and keep it up. The full faith and credit of the United States Government is pledged for payment of both principal and interest on these bonds. ACT NOW!

YOU GET A $25 BOND FOR ONLY $18.75
Facts About Defense Bonds - (Series E)

HOW MUCH DO THEY COST? YOU LEND UNCLE SAM	UPON MATURITY YOU GET BACK
$18.75	$25.00
$37.50	$50.00
$75.00	$100.00
$375.00	$500.00
$750.00	$1,000.00

When is maturity? Ten years, but you can cash the bonds at any time after 60 days from their issue date. Naturally, the longer you hold the Bond, up to 10 years, the more money you'll get back. But you'll never get less than you put in.
What's the interest rate? When held to maturity, the bonds yield 2.9% per year on your investment, compounded semiannually—you get $1 back for every $3.

Bonds or Bondage? Make This Your Answer!
JOIN THE PAY-ROLL SAVINGS PLAN
EMPLOYEES! Under the voluntary Pay-Roll Savings Plan (approved by organized labor) you simply save a part of your pay every pay day toward the purchase of Defense Bonds. Tell your foreman or department head you want to ENROLL NOW!
EMPLOYERS! Do your part. If you haven't already offered your workers a Pay-Roll Savings Plan, write or wire Treasury Department, Pay-Roll Savings Section, 709 Twelfth St. NW., Washington, D. C., for full particulars.

2—Card of Thanks

I WISH sincerely to thank my many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings received during the sad loss of my dearly beloved son, MRS. HELEN STOUT. (L-27)

WE WISH to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness during the illness and death of our husband and father. We especially want to thank Rev. Lena Bradberg for her consoling words and all who sent flowers. We also wish to thank Wappner Funeral Directors for their kind, courteous and efficient service.
MRS. MARY NEWCOMER,
WILLIAM NEWCOMER,
FLOYD NEWCOMER,
MRS. E. S. YARGER. (R-27)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS
Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can't hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.
A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

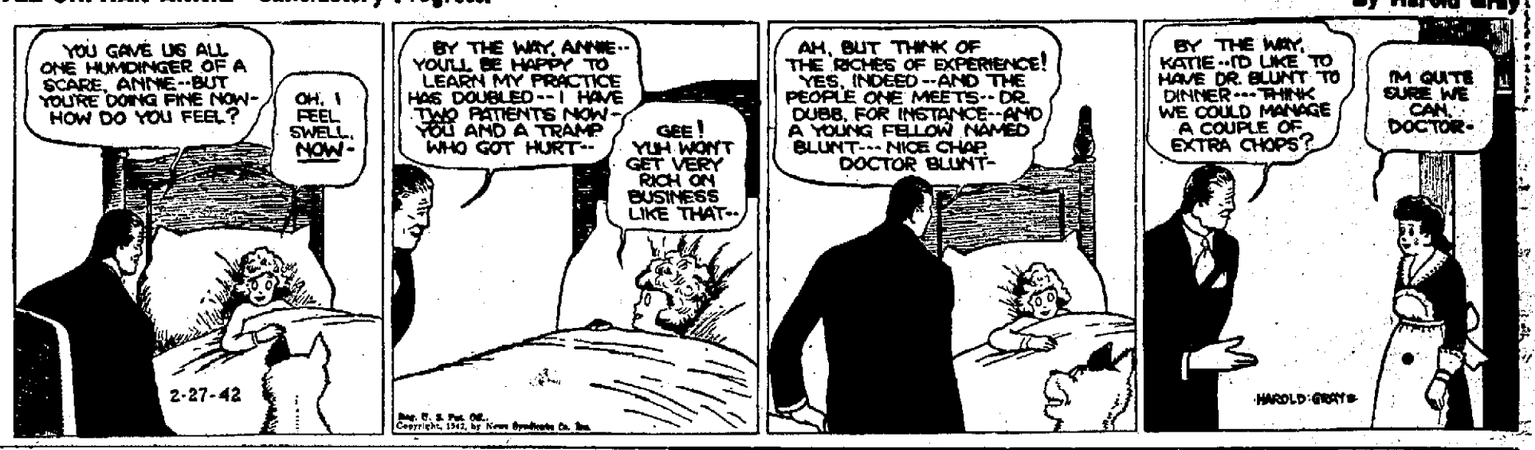
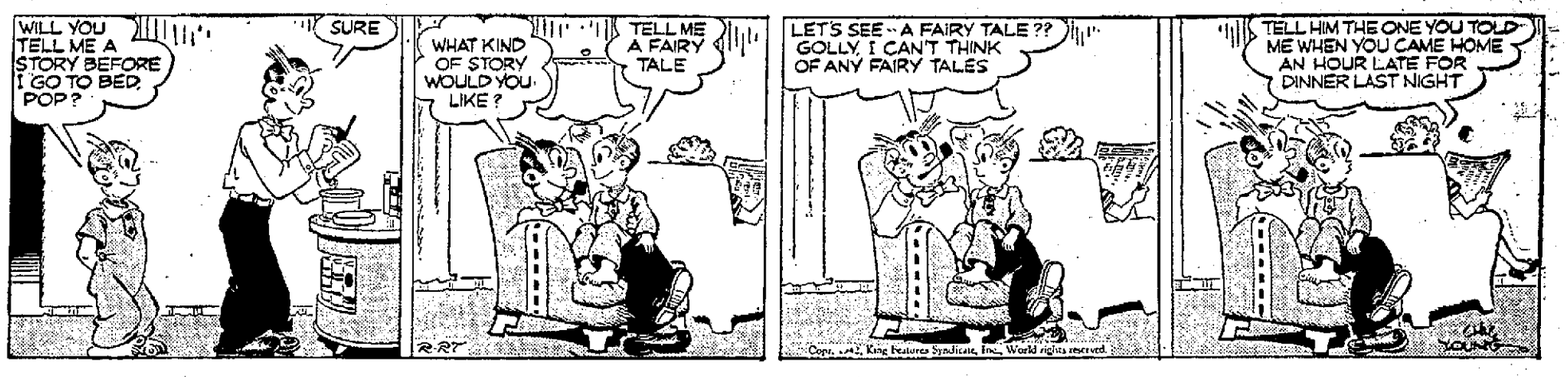
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Satisfactory Progress. By Harold Gray



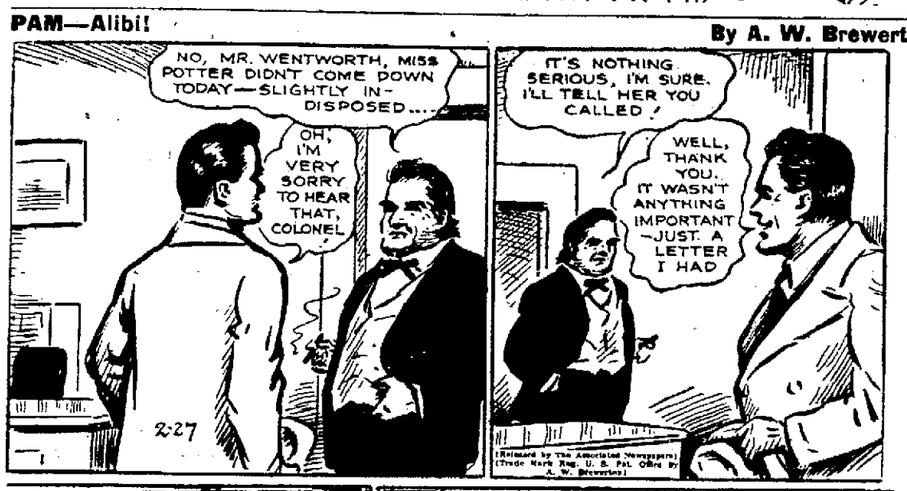
YOU GAVE US ALL ONE HUMDINGER OF A SCARE, ANNIE--BUT YOU'RE DOING FINE NOW- HOW DO YOU FEEL?
OH, I FEEL SWELL, NOW-
2-27-42
BY THE WAY, ANNIE-- YOU'LL BE HAPPY TO LEARN MY PRACTICE HAS DOUBLED--I HAVE TWO PATIENTS NOW- YOU AND A TRAMP WHO GOT HURT--
GEE! YUH WON'T GET VERY RICH ON BUSINESS LIKE THAT--
AH, BUT THINK OF THE RICHES OF EXPERIENCE! YES, INDEED--AND THE PEOPLE ONE MEETS--DR. DUBB, FOR INSTANCE--AND A YOUNG FELLOW NAMED BLUNT--NICE CHAP, DOCTOR BLUNT-
BY THE WAY, KATIE--I'D LIKE TO HAVE DR. BLUNT TO DINNER--THINK WE COULD MANAGE A COUPLE OF EXTRA CHOPS?
I'M QUITE SURE WE CAN, DOCTOR-
HAROLD GRAY

BLONDIE—Dagwood (Pinocchio) Bumstead! By Chic Young



WILL YOU TELL ME A STORY BEFORE I GO TO BED, POP?
SURE
WHAT KIND OF STORY WOULD YOU LIKE?
TELL ME A FAIRY TALE
LET'S SEE--A FAIRY TALE?? GOLLY, I CAN'T THINK OF ANY FAIRY TALES
TELL HIM THE ONE YOU TOLD ME WHEN YOU CAME HOME AN HOUR LATE FOR DINNER LAST NIGHT
CHIC YOUNG

PAM—Alibi! By A. W. Brewerton



NO, MR. WENTWORTH, MISS POTTER DIDN'T COME DOWN TODAY—SLIGHTLY IN- DISPOSED....
OH, I'M VERY SORRY TO HEAR THAT, COLONEL
2-27
IT'S NOTHING SERIOUS, I'M SURE. I'LL TELL HER YOU CALLED WELL, THANK YOU. IT WASN'T ANYTHING IMPORTANT -JUST A LETTER I HAD (Released by the Associated Newspapers) (Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Office By A. W. Brewerton)
CAREY
THERE! WON'T DO ANY HARM TO HAVE THE OLD FELLOW'S TESTIMONY THAT I KNEW NOTHING OF MISS POTTER'S ACTIONS THIS MORNING-- IF THINGS SHOULD GO WRONG!
"TURN TO THE LEFT-- LOOK FOR A DOOR WITH MR. BLANK'S NAME ON IT."

THE NEBBS—Table for Two. By Sol Hess

HOW ABOUT OUR EXTRA-SPECIAL TENDER DOUBLE SIRLOIN?
LAST ONE I HAD WAS SO SMALL YOU COULDA HACKED IT OFF A LIVE STEER AND HE WOULDN'T EVEN FEEL TH' NICK 2-27
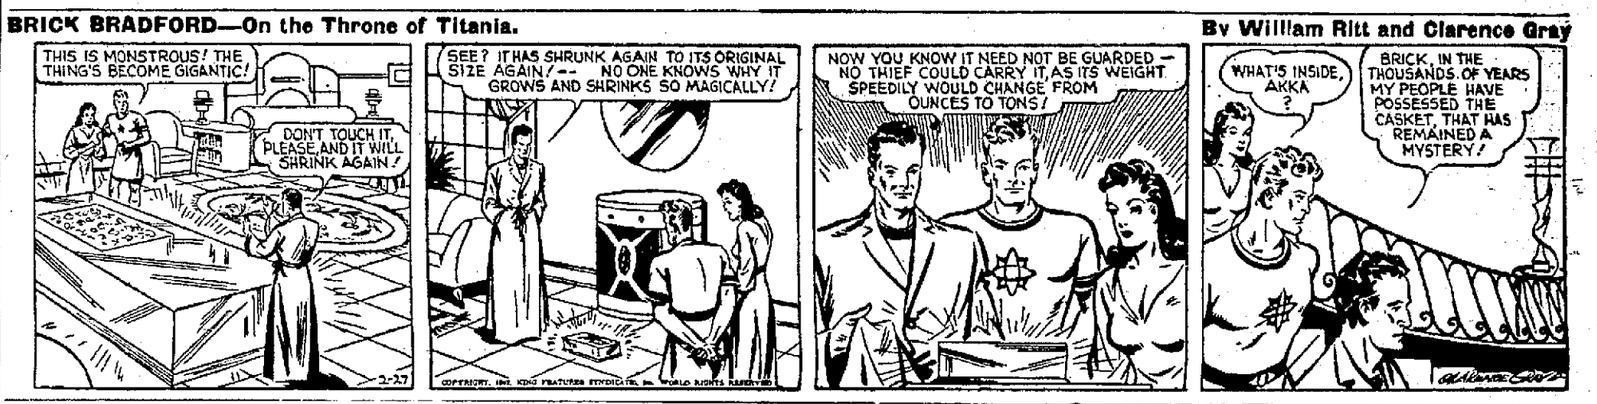
THE BEEF STEW AIN'T BAD. IT'S GOT SPUDS AND CARROTS IN IT AND SOMETIMES YOU FIND MEAT!
LETS ORDER LATER, I WANT TO KNOW WHAT YOU FOUND OUT FROM NEBB
NOTHIN' YET-- THAT DUMB GUARD WOULDN'T LET ME IN WITHOUT A PASS
IF YOU LOVE ME TROOLY-OOLY YOU WON'T LET A LITTLE THING LIKE THAT STOP YOU
IF THEY WANTA KEEP ME OUTA NEBBS OFFICE TOMORROW THEY WILL HAVE TO CALL OUT THE MARINES

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titania. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray



THIS IS MONSTROUS! THE THING'S BECOME GIGANTIC!
DON'T TOUCH IT, PLEASE, AND IT WILL SHRINK AGAIN!
SEE? IT HAS SHRUNK AGAIN TO ITS ORIGINAL SIZE AGAIN!-- NO ONE KNOWS WHY IT GROWS AND SHRINKS SO MAGICALLY!
2-27
NOW YOU KNOW IT NEED NOT BE GUARDED — NO THIEF COULD CARRY IT, AS ITS WEIGHT SPEEDILY WOULD CHANGE FROM OUNCES TO TONS!
WHAT'S INSIDE, AKKA?
BRICK, IN THE THOUSANDS OF YEARS MY PEOPLE HAVE POSSESSED THE CASKET, THAT HAS REMAINED A MYSTERY!

BLASTS ON JAP INVASION FLEET CHEER TRADERS

Leading Stocks Climb Up Fractions To Point on War News.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A little better brand of war news aided stock market sentiment today and leading issues were bid up fractions to a point or so.

Santa Fe edged into new high ground for the past year. Early improvement was recorded for U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Standard Oil (NJ), General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Coca-Cola, American Tobacco "B," American Can, Du Pont, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Harvester and American Telephone.

Allied blasts at the Japanese invasion armada in the southwest Pacific and indications heavy reinforcements for the United Nations had arrived in that part of the world tended to hearten recently gloomy financial circles.

Interest was shown in the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing that, while "stock up" scarce retail purchasing appeared to be flattening out, dollar sales for the country as a whole this week exceeded the like 1941 period by 14 to 20 per cent. In unit volume, it was explained, distribution was around last year's level, higher prices accounting for the expansion in the money aggregate.

CROPPER AGAIN BRIDGE CHAMP

Noses Out Riester In Final Play Of University Club Series.

Paul F. Cropper, investment dealer, today held the duplicate bridge championship of the University club for the second consecutive year, following the conclusion of the six-week tournament at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night.

Champion in 1941, Cropper just nosed out Dr. W. R. Riester this year, by the margin of a tenth of one per cent in total score.

In third place was Lloyd A. Brown, Dr. R. D. Campbell was fourth, Thornton Moore fifth and William F. Black was sixth.

Cash prize of $15 went with first place, and smaller awards went to the other high finishers. Thirty-two members took part in the tourney.

O-B EMPLOYES TO GET RAISE

Wage Increases Provided In Contract Ending 2 Years of Negotiation.

Approximately 750 employes at the Mansfield plant of the Ohio Brass company will receive wage increases and vacation pay under a contract which today had ended two years of negotiation between the firm and the CIO Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union.

The contract was signed late yesterday in Washington, D. C., where representatives of the company and the union held a two-day meeting with a panel of the War Labor board.

Employes of the firm's Barberton plant were also affected by the contract. Under the terms of the agreement, Mansfield workers will receive wage hikes of five cents an hour and five per cent on piece jobs and one week vacation with pay for a year of service and two weeks vacation for those with the company five years.

Barberton employes were granted wage hikes of 10 cents an hour and 10 per cent in piece rates and the same vacation privileges as the Mansfield employes.

The contract also outlaws strikes or lockouts during the life of the agreement set at Feb. 25, 1943. Men entering the armed services will be given two weeks pay for six months employment and four weeks for employment of a year. Present wage scales were not disclosed.

Serving on the War board panel were Fowler Harper, Indiana university law professor; H. L. Derby, preside of the American Cyanamid Chemical company; and Hugh Lyons, New England regional director of the CIO.

PRODUCTION CLIMBS

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The nation's bituminous coal production for the week ended Feb. 21 was estimated today by the National Coal association at 10,930,000 net tons, a five per cent increase over the 10,414,000 tons produced the corresponding week of 1940.

40-HOUR WEEK FACES BIG TEST

House Ready For Showdown on Labor Legislation In Session Today.

lowering of morale, with incalculable loss to our war effort."

"Wherever any substantial delay in production has been encountered," Hillman said, "it has been due primarily to a shortage or scarcity of materials. No delay in production has occurred by reason of the existence of these labor laws on our statute books."

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Smith (D.), Va., came in the form of an amendment to the omnibus second war powers bill which broadens the government's wartime authority and grants free postage to men in the armed forces.

The Smith amendment would set aside, for the duration, a total of 17 different federal statutes, including the wage-hour law, the Walsh-Healey act, and others which regulate hours of work.

Net effect would be that all employes in industries engaged in interstate commerce, which includes most business, could be required to work longer hours without receiving the time and a half, or in some cases double time, as provided in existing law.

The Smith amendment was immediately backed by other southern Democrats, and was bitterly assailed by their northern colleagues.

Curiously, the house Democrats just the night before had attended a harmony banquet, replete with speeches containing fulsome praise for each other.

While the house has passed some anti-strike legislation objectionable to the leadership previously, it so far always has been pigeon-holed by the senate labor committee. In this case, however, the legislation comes as an amendment to an important war bill, and the senate will be compelled to consider it.

TOLD OF DEATH OF MRS. RODGERS

Richland county relatives of Mrs. Henrietta Rodgers, 75, former Mansfield resident, have learned of her recent death in Douglas, Ariz. She died at the home of a sister, Mrs. Katie Nelson. The body was sent to Waverly, O., for services and burial.

Mrs. Rodgers left Mansfield nine years ago to live with her son, Lewis, in Arizona. Surviving are her sister, Mrs. Nelson in Arizona; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Blanche Izer Rodgers, and two grandchildren, Wilbur and June Rodgers, of Bellville; a step-son, Warren Rodgers, and a step-grandson, Charles Rodgers, both of Los Angeles, Calif.

PAYS PENALTY FOR SLAYINGS

Killer Can't Quite Sneer as He Goes to Chair.

OSSINING, N. Y.—(U.P.)—George Cvek, who sneered about the 15 housewives he murdered, raped or robbed and sneered and spat at the judge who sentenced him, couldn't quite sneer last night when he sat down in the electric chair of Sing Sing prison. But he tried.

A cynical smile played about his lips while attendants adjusted head and leg electrodes and buckled him in.

Three minutes after he entered the death chamber, he was pronounced dead. He was executed for the murder of pretty Mrs. Katherine Pappas, a Sunday school teacher, whom he strangled and robbed.

Mrs. Partello to Open Dramatic, Expression Studio

Mrs. Alice Partello is resuming her teaching of dramatic expression at her new studio apartment, 580 Park avenue west, and will accept pupils for both private and class instruction.

Before becoming a resident of Mansfield Mrs. Partello had a professional career and for a good many years appeared in both stock and vaudeville with the companies managed by her late husband, W. A. "Billy" Partello.

She studied at the Marie Laughton School of English Speech and Expression in Boston and appeared in that city with the Castle Square Stock company.

Her instruction will emphasize voice placement, projection and coloration and will also deal with the correction of voice defects.
